WETS ASSAIL, DRYS DEFEND RUM KILLINGS

Demand of Anti-Prohibitionists To Curb Shooting Stirs House

WILL MEET THURSDAY

Some Drys Alarmed, However, Over Public Resentment Being Displayed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8—The prohibition reform which has occasioned bitter debate in the house is busy on the tariff, the senate is busy around plans of the [illegible] rum shot gun enforcement drive, a counter-attack by the wets to preserve the morale of the [illegible] forces by defending their [illegible] enforcement.

The campaign to curb the killings will be officially launched tomorrow afternoon at a meeting of the unofficial committee [illegible] of the prohibition [illegible] Rep. Linthicum, [illegible] Maryland.

The drys meantime planned to rush the house into debate again [illegible] of the coast guard, customs and prohibition enforcement generally against charges that killings occur in [illegible] cases.

Some Drys Alarmed

Some [illegible] "drys", however, are [illegible] over the public resentment [illegible] in localities where [illegible] occurred. The entire country has risen to a new high [illegible] as a result of the slaying of [illegible] on the "Black Duck" a rum running boat, in Long Island sound, and the shooting of James [illegible] at Buffalo.

Rep. Charles L. Gifford, Republican of Massachusetts who has supported all enforcement legislation, expressed the attitude of "drys" who [illegible] killings in the execution of the law.

"The people along the New England coast are now brought face to face with what indiscriminate measures to enforce this law may bring [illegible]" he said. "They are staggered at the killing of young men, many of whom have been enticed into the rum business. These killings certainly do the prohibition cause no good and I think they have turned the people against it.

Going Too Far, He Fears

"I fear perhaps we are going too far in our enthusiasm to enforce the law when we permit killings except in extreme provocation. I have always been a staunch advocate of the coast guard and have been anxious to back it in all its activities. But I cannot applaud a massacre."

Representative Mead, Democrat, of New York, a "wet," announced he will go before the "wet bloc" with a

Italian Crown Prince Takes Childhood Sweetheart for His Bride in Ceremony of Feudal Splendor

Royalty from Every Reigning House of Europe See Marriage Solemnized

GUARD AGAINST PLOTS

Cannons Boom and Bands Play as Marie Jose Becomes Italian Princess

BY GUGLIELMO EMANUEL
Marion Star Staff Writer

ROME, Jan. 8—In a magnificent ceremony which carried this twentieth-century city back to the feudal splendor of the middle ages Crown Prince Umberto, the future king of Italy, took his childhood sweetheart for his bride today.

A galaxy of royalty, including kings, queens, princes and princesses from every reigning house of Europe, were present when the heir to the Italian throne was wedded to Princess Marie Jose, beautiful daughter of King Albert and Queen Elizabeth, of Belgium.

BUT while the princess was being married to the heir to the Italian throne within the palace, there was a sinister note in the streets outside, as heavily armed Fascist guards and plain clothes policemen kept a constant watch to see that no anarchistic attempt was made.

The discovery of a number of plots directed against the princess and members of her family, caused the Italian authorities to take extraordinary precautions to prevent any untoward incident. All suspected characters had been rounded up, and all recent visitors from outlying provinces had been thoroughly searched and their identities and reputations checked in order to forestall any attempts at a bombing plot.

WITH very few exceptions, the marriage was witnessed only by persons of royal blood. For the ceremony which thus links two of the oldest sovereign dynasties of Europe took place in the tiny Pauline chapel of the Quirinal palace, residence of the Italian royal family.

Approximately 100 persons, almost every one bearing regal titles, sat in crimson-draped pews in the historic chapel during the ceremony, while in the reception rooms of the palace adjoining, thousands of invited

TO GO OVER NEW LAWS

COLUMBUS, Jan. 8—Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown today announced that sessions will be held here Jan. 16 and 17 of the advisory committee that is aiding Brown in interpreting the new Ohio election code.

EX-CONVICT IS TO SURRENDER

First Concrete Development in Taylor Case Is Foreshadowed

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8—The first concrete development in the resurrection of the William Desmond Taylor murder mystery in Los Angeles was foreshadowed here today.

Otis Hefner, alias Nelson, ex-convict, who recently retold a story indicating knowledge of the crime, promised to surrender during the day to State Parole Officer Ed. J. Whyte as a parole violator from Folsom prison.

Whyte was anxious to question Hefner what he actually knew of Taylor's murder eight years ago and his reported statements that a film actress was the slayer.

In a long distance telephone conversation with the parole officer, District Attorney Buron Fitts of Los Angeles indicated that he did not believe Hefner had any tangible evidence to reveal, and would not have a representative present at his questioning.

At the same time word reached here that Fitts would make no effort to re-interrogate Henry Peaver, negro houseboy and cook for Taylor, who was located in Sacramento after being in seclusion since leaving Los Angeles immediately following the crime.

A recheck of the colored youth's story failed to disclose any new facts not developed during the original investigation.

Judge Exonerates Two Actresses

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 8—The investigation of the murder of William Desmond Taylor developed no evidence indicating the guilt of Mabel Normand or Mary Miles Minter. In an exclusive interview today with International News Service, this declaration was made by Superior Court Judge William C. Doran. He, as chief deputy district attorney following the shooting to death of the motion picture director, Feb. 1, 1922, was in direct charge of the investigation.

Gangster Dies Silent, Police Piece Story

COVINGTON, Ky., Jan. 8—Maintaining gangland's code of silence until the end, David Jerus, 38, alleged notorious gangster, is dead here today from bullet wounds, which, police believe, he received when he and a companion attempted to take a man "for a ride."

According to a story told by Charles Stubbs, 41, who is in St. Elizabeth hospital suffering from two bullet wounds in the abdomen, two men attempted to take him for a ride. In the exchange of shots, he said, he was wounded and he said he believed he had shot the two men.

EARLY SETTLEMENT OF STRIKE LOOMS

Conference Scheduled This Afternoon Between Manufacturers and Union Heads

CLEVELAND, Jan. 8 — While garment union strikers resumed their picketing with relentless zeal here today, possibilities of an early settlement loomed when it was announced that a conference would be held this afternoon between officials of the Ladies' Garment Workers' union and representatives of the Ladies' Garment Manufacturers association.

The union delegation to the conference will be headed by Benjamin Schlesinger, New York, president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union, who has come here to take active charge of the strike. The manufacturers association represents approximately 65 per cent. of production in the Cleveland industry.

"An endeavor to work out a basis for the settlement of the strike against the members of the association will be made at the meeting," a joint statement regarding the conference said.

AUTO RIDE ENDS IN KILLING OF 2 MEN

Infuriated Ex-Husband Believed To Have Done Shooting; Woman Wounded

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 8—Ending a wild automobile ride through a fashionable residential section here early today, two men were shot and killed and a woman was believed fatally wounded by an infuriated ex-husband.

The dead were George Mason and J. E. Barnett. The wounded woman was Mrs. George Mason.

Witnesses, according to the police, saw two automobiles suddenly swerve to a halt at an intersection, and heard three shots ring out. When they reached the scene Mason was found dead in his automobile and his wife lay on the floor of the machine with a bullet through her head.

Barnett, said to have done the shooting, was lying in the street, dead from a wound in the heart.

Justice Taft Is Resting in Washington Hospital

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8—William Howard Taft, chief justice of the supreme court and former president of the United States was resting comfortably today in Garfield hospital. His spirit was brightened when his physicians told him the slight recurrence of an old bladder trouble would be cleared within a week.

Taft entered the hospital yesterday to receive treatment. He hopes to leave his bed within 10 days and go to Asheville, N. C., for a long rest.

COUNTY BUDGET $35,000 LOWER

Cut in Debt Payments Puts 1930 Bill Below That of Last Year

The Marion county commissioners will appropriate approximately $35,000 less this year than a year ago, according to figures given the commissioners today by County Auditor Earl E. Thomas as the board prepared to begin work on the annual appropriations. The board will start work on the appropriations this afternoon or Thursday morning.

The decrease in the amount to be appropriated is due largely to a decrease in the amount needed this year for the retirement of county bonds. Last year the county needed $114,000 for the bond retirement fund. The amount needed this year is $101,000.

Amount for All Funds

A year ago the board appropriated approximately $624,291 for all funds. The amount to be appropriated this year is approximately $589,589.

Auditor Thomas' report to the commissioners shows that the county has a balance of $25,000 in the general fund on Dec. 31. Last year the balance in this fund was $20,000.

Last year the general fund required a total appropriation of $262,507. The estimated requirement for this year is $265,000. Last year the commissioners appropriated $210,000 for the fund for maintenance and repair of roads. The appropriation this year will be $222,000 as the result of an increase of several thousand dollars in the amount received from the state gasoline tax.

The commissioners will probably complete the appropriations by Friday.

DOCTORS NAME COMMITTEE ON HEALTH PLAN

Proposal To Combine County and City Offices Discussed at Meeting

MAY BE INDORSED

Proposal Considered as New Academy Officers Are Installed

Additional impetus may be given the movement to combine the city and county health districts as the result of action taken by the Marion Academy of Medicine, at a meeting of that organization last night in Hotel Harding.

Advisability of combining the two districts will be investigated by a committee named last night by Dr. F. E. Mahla, who was installed last night as president of the physicians' organization.

Appointment of the committee, which is to report at a future meeting of the Marion Academy of Medicine, followed a general discussion of the public health question by members of the association, Dr. Mahla said today.

Await Committee Report

Recommendation that the two health districts be combined and placed under one head is expected if the committee reports favorably after acquainting itself with the operation of combined districts in other counties of the state.

A movement looking towards the appointment of a health commissioner to have charge of the entire county has gained considerable footing here since it was recently proposed by W. B. Strayer, director of public safety.

Such a step would be favorable in the eyes of Charles A. Neal, state director of health, he has stated in communication with The Star. A similar plan has been operated successfully in other counties and cities of the state, he reports.

Propose Credit Bureau

Members of the Marion Academy of Medicine may soon have a credit rating bureau to protect their accounts, following a decision last night to create such a bureau. The details of its operation will be worked out by a committee named by Dr. Mahla.

Other officers installed last night with President Mahla are Dr. T. H. Sutherland, vice president, Dr. Robert McMurray, secretary, and Dr. E. L. Brady, treasurer.

BOY, 4, KILLED WHEN TRAIN STRIKES BUS

Two Other Persons Injured at Newton; Driver Says Rain Blocked Vision

CINCINNATI, Jan. 8—A four-year-old boy is dead today and two other persons are recovering from injuries as a result of a bus-train accident yesterday afternoon, when a switch engine struck a school bus at Newton, near here.

Only three persons were in the bus at the time of the crash. It was en route to the Terrace Park High school where it was to have been boarded by school officials.

Hugh Balnum, 4, a son of the driver, Allen Balnum, was caught beneath the wreckage and crushed to death. Imogene Balnum, 10, a daughter of the driver, was badly bruised about the legs. The driver was also bruised.

He said he failed to see the switch engine. Rain obscured the driver's vision.

RISING RIVERS BRING COUNTY FLOOD THREAT

Chases Thief 100 Miles

Court Bailiff Recovers Stolen Auto After Mad Dash Over Slippery National Highway

COLUMBUS, Jan. 8—Frank Barrett, bailiff in common pleas court here, was in possession of his automobile today following a 100-mile chase which led him over the National highway to a point about 14 miles east of St. Clairsville.

Barrett discovered that his auto had been stolen about dinner time last evening. He notified police and they reported that the auto was seen passing through Reynoldsburg, about 10 miles east of here, a short time before.

Soliciting the aid of a neighbor, Barrett and the neighbor gave chase, over wet and slippery highways in the rain. They overtook the thief, in Belmont county, who refused to stop at Barrett's command. Barrett fired his revolver five times at the fleeing auto. The thief abandoned it and escaped.

NO REHEARING IN SNOOK CASE

Ohio Supreme Court Refuses To Intervene in Columbus Slayer's Doom

COLUMBUS, Jan. 8—The Ohio supreme court today denied a rehearing in the case of Dr. James Howard Snook, sentenced to be electrocuted in Ohio penitentiary here Jan. 31. Snook was convicted of murdering Miss Theora Hix, a coed at Ohio State university.

The application for rehearing was filed a few days ago as a result of the supreme court's recent decision rejecting Snook's appeal from the death decree imposed by the trial court.

The attorneys for the steel-nerved ex-college professor announced that they will file another petition with the supreme court here, asking permission to carry the case to the United States supreme court.

Should Chief Justice C. T. Marshall of the Ohio supreme court refuse the petition, the attorneys, headed by E. O. Ricketts, Columbus, will seek the permission of one of the United States supreme court justices, it was announced.

Dr. Snook, who beat his coed sweetheart to death with a ballpein hammer and then slashed her jugular vein with a pocket-knife is making the last stand for his life.

He confessed to the murder of Miss Hix, who was slain on a lonely rifle range on the outskirts of this city, June 13.

Dr. Snook was convicted by a common pleas court jury here in 28 minutes. The appellate court, as well as the Ohio supreme court, has refused to intervene.

MRS. G. ROSENBERG CLAIMED BY DEATH

Widow of Pioneer Marion Shoe Merchant Passes Away at Age of 76

Mrs. Godfrey Rosenberg, 76, for many years a resident of Marion, passed away this morning at 9 o'clock at her home, 545 Courtland av. She was an invalid for six years, and died of infirmities of age.

Mrs. Rosenberg was born July 3, 1853 in Herzhoffen, Germany, to Samuel and Rose Schoenmann-Oppenheimer, both of Germany. She was married May 1, 1877, in Philadelphia, Pa., to Godfrey Rosenberg. Her husband, a pioneer shoe merchant in Marion, died in 1922.

Samuel G. Rosenberg, a son, whose home is at 216 Hane st., is a member of the G. Rosenberg & Son shoe firm and manager of the store on South Main st. A daughter, Miss Rose Rosenberg, is at home. Two other daughters are Mrs. Harry Grossman of Flint, Mich., and Mrs. Simon Bornheim, of Columbia. Five grandchildren survive. One sister, Miss Jeanette Oppenheimer, makes her home at 545 Courtland av.

Mrs. Rosenberg was a member of Marion Council of Jewish Women and of the Marion Congregation of Israel.

Funeral services will be held Friday morning at 11 o'clock at the home, with Rabbi Jacob Tarshish, of Columbus, in charge. Interment will be made in Marion cemetery.

THUGS ROB RESTAURANT

TOLEDO, Jan. 8—Two thugs early today entered two eating establishments near here, held three waitresses and 12 customers at bay with revolvers, and escaped with $175. Two other bandits held up a filling station. Their efforts netted them $140.

High Waters Already Over Roads in Some Parts of District

PROSPECT RD. CLOSED

Check of Rainfall by Cold Wave Only Hope for Halting Downpour

Unless a delayed cold wave which was scheduled to sweep this county today arrives this afternoon in sufficient force to halt an incessant rainfall which started last night, the county will find itself overrun, with flood waters, reports today indicated.

With a total of 1.00 inches of rainfall last night, many fields were transformed into small pools today, while streams and rivers over the county were flooded and overran their banks.

The situation at noon today was most serious at Green Camp, where swollen streams and flooded fields, which have forced water over roads, threatens to break the schedule school buses. Plans were being made to send the children living on rural routes to their homes this afternoon while the roads are yet passable.

The road leading from Green Camp north to Big Island is threatened, and school officials today announced that children living along this road and tributary routes would be sent home the minute the water reaches the road level, which it threatens to do.

Scioto Rising Steadily

Reports from Prospect indicate the Scioto river is rising approximately an inch and a half an hour. Already the river has left its banks and overrun the river road between Newmans and Prospect. Lowlands are flooded.

Detour signs were posted along Prospect rd. this morning, according to reports from there. The northern section of the village is threatened by high water, which has already invaded back lots along the river front.

At Talltor, the river had risen to a depth of 13 and a half feet. This is not dangerous, but the continued rain may push the heights of the river to dangerous levels. When the river passed the 12-foot mark this morning, lowlands lying along the banks were flooded, but no damage had been done at noon today.

Upper Sandusky Menaced

Upper Sandusky will be virtually hemmed in by rising water if the rainfall continues strong today, according to reports from there today. Government gauges recorded 2.5 inches of rainfall yesterday and last night, and the Sandusky river gauges stood at a level of 12 feet and 10 inches. The depth of the river was increased six feet by last night's rainfall.

The Tymochtee and Sandusky rivers are threatening nearly every route leading from Upper Sandusky, including the Marion-Upper Sandusky rd., which has been submerged in places. Route No. 5, Lincoln Highway, is threatened by the rapidly rising Tymochtee, and portions of the road will be under water tonight if the rain continues.

Route No. 53 from Upper Sandusky, leading to Forest, is also threatened by the Tymochtee waters. All traffic, including school buses, will be unable to ford the submerged portions by night if the rain continues. This route, which also leads to Tiffin to the north, is partially submerged, and is especially dangerous because of the strong current.

Mercury Drop Forecast

Rain or sleet is expected to continue today with the increasingly lower temperatures, which may break the rain into snowfall, according to weather prognosticators today. Colder temperature is expected tonight and Thursday.

The cold wave, which was scheduled to hit Marion this morning, was slowly pushing the mercury down at noon, but had gained no headway before daylight this morning. Last night the mercury remained above the 30-degree mark. A year ago the temperature was down to zero, with a high mark of 24 for the day, as compared with a high of 46 degrees reported yesterday.

Liquor Plant Valued at $500,000 Seized

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 8—The largest illicit liquor plant ever uncovered in Philadelphia was in the hands of police today. The plant, trucks and liquor seized, valued at $500,000, were discovered in a mill on Memphis near Thomas st., in North Philadelphia, last night.

Col. Samuel O. Wynne, eastern Pennsylvania prohibition administrator, is the chief assistant. Alexander MacPhee, Director of Public Safety, T. H. Schofield, and a score of federal agents and policemen conducted the raid.

State Banks Will Be Examined Twice Yearly

COLUMBUS, Jan. 8—Announcement that state banks will be examined twice this year was made today by O. C. Gray, state banking superintendent. It was been the practice to examine these banks only once each year.

The new policy, Gray believes, will tend to reduce the number of bank failures to a minimum and will benefit each bank.

Farewell, Charley Boston

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

TODAY the Italian crown prince will marry the Belgian princess in much of medieval ceremony.

Royalties invited to the wedding enjoyed a great "shoot" on the Sassi estate. Each with a gun, royal ladies and gentlemen, stood at positions assigned to them. Beaters drove the cleverly wild animals of all sorts [illegible] wild boar—and as they appeared royalty shot and killed as many as possible.

Hundreds of dead animals were laid out in a row, that royalty might admire its prowess.

Then, as royalty could not eat all or even a taste of what was killed, the rest went to the poor in Rome.

Six thousand convicts were set free that they might rejoice with the rest of Italy.

Fine also in accordance with ancient customs.

A new, unpleasant feature is the [illegible] of Italian anarchists, opposed [illegible] to the royalties [illegible] to the game driven [illegible].

The London Daily Mail published [illegible] to kill the royalties by blowing up the chapel during the marriage ceremony or mowing them down with machine guns when they left the chapel door.

Congressman La Guardia from New York told the house that transferring prohibition enforcement from the Treasury, to the Department of Justice would ruin that department: "just as the coast guard has been corrupted" by bribery.

It is a difficult prohibition problem, but American intelligence will find a way to solve it.

One thing is certain, prohibition is NOT coming out of the Constitution.

NEW YORK'S Chinatown will bury Charley Boston, now lying in state in Mulberry st. The funeral will be grand and rather complicated.

Charley Boston, founder of the On Leon Tong, was a good American Christian in New York, but as a Chinese he remained a disciple of Confucius, a believer in that philosophy.

In one way Confucianism and Christianity are not very far apart. Christianity says, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you."

Confucius said, hundreds of years before Christianity, "Do not do unto others what you would not have them do unto you."

Guests Honored With Dinner

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. Fred D. Cressap, of New York City, Mr. and Mrs. Elden J. Ralston entertained with a dinner at their home, 676 Bellefontaine av., Sunday. Mrs. Cressap was formerly Miss Elene Wilson, of this city.

Former Marion Girl Weds at Sandusky

Announcement was received here today of the marriage of Miss Genevieve Merkle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Merkle, of Sandusky, and Robert Whitaker, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Whitaker, of Norwalk, which was solemnized at 7:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon by the Rev. Father William F. Murphy at the parsonage of the Ss. Peter and Paul's church, Sandusky.

The bride was attended by her friend, Miss Lilah Curtis, who chose a gown of green chiffon for the occasion. The frock, a Princess model, was cut with a long skirt and close fitting bodice effect. Her hat was green French felt and she carried Oderlia roses, snapdragons and lilies of the valley tied with silver and green tulle.

Miss Merkle wore a gown of rust tinted chiffon with a skirt fashioned with tiers and a long hemline. The sleeves were long and tight fitting. The bride's hat was a small imported model of rust felt and she wore lizard slippers and hose of a corresponding shade. She carried an attractive arrangement of bride's roses, lilies of the valley and larkspur.

The bridegroom was attended by James Nicholson.

Immediately after the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents for the bridal party. Later Mr. and Mrs. Whitaker left for a short wedding trip and upon their return will reside in Sandusky.

The bride is a graduate of St. Mary's High school, of this city, and attended the Kentucky School for Women, Danville, Ky. For the past two years she has been employed in the offices of the American Crayon Company, Sandusky. Mr. Whitaker graduated from Norwalk High school and Miami university, where he was a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon national fraternity. He is employed as assistant coach at Sandusky High school.

Guest Entertained By Club Hostess

Mrs. E. E. Boucutter was entertained as a guest when the L. E. C. club met yesterday afternoon with Mrs. M. O. Pangborn, Girard av. Two tables were arranged for cards, high honors being awarded Mrs. Everett Frye. Mrs. Charles Boucutter was consoled. A luncheon in keeping with the season was served by the hostess. The club will meet again in two weeks, the place to be announced later.

People talk as if nearly everyone weren't already trying to curb his own faults, more or less. There is a lot of quiet work going on.

Marion Women's Club Leader Explains Need of Study in Planning Programs

Mrs. Lewis Uhl Outlines New Standards Required for Activities

"CLUB management is ceasing to be an amateur occupation," Mrs. Lewis Uhl, past president of the Marion County Federation of Women's clubs, said in opening her paper on "Program Building," last night at a meeting of the federation at the city library building.

The paper was of great interest to the club women present, and aroused favorable comment among those who heard it. Mrs. Uhl presented the paper at a recent district meeting of Women's clubs in Delaware. It included the following statements.

"The administration of clubs has become a business a side business to be sure, but still demanding a new standard of ways and means, a knowledge of the technique of being a club woman, whether it be as a member or an officer.

"There are millions of club women and thousands of clubs. Their activities range all the way from the small circle of intimate friends to the great groups that are influencing cities and working on questions of federal legislation. It would be stupid of us to fail to draw our energies together and ask ourselves very pointedly how can we stop being amateurs and become effective?

Profit by Mistakes

"For one thing we must learn to avoid our old mistakes of trying to plan our own programs and gain our ends by a more direct path. In electing a program committee, elect or choose people who are willing to give time and effort to prepare the program.

"In making up the year's program, there are three fundamentals:

"First: Do not try to cover too much ground in a single year. Intellectual food, like bodily food, requires time to get the sweetness of its taste and time for digestion. Take time for consideration of your topic. Club study should be intensive.

"Second: Select essential, not shallow subjects. If you are studying an author or a painter or a musician, or a statesman, the thing you want to get at is his work. It is his work, not the time of his birth and death, that makes him immortal. Study only so much about him as is necessary to understand that work.

"Third: Club study differs from individual study. We study in clubs rather than alone because we want the contact of mind with mind. Subjects must be so presented as to awaken thought, question and discussion. We must have no dry and uninteresting papers.

Current Events Important

"Even clubs with a fixed program for the year may keep abreast of the times by having 10 or 15 minutes at the beginning of the meeting on current question, or by having each member respond to the roll call by giving an important event or discovery that has come up since the last meeting.

"Whether your club is a study club, a civic club, or departmental club, an occasional meeting in which some debatable topic, upon a subject that is open to varieties of opinion, should be thrown open to discussion. This serves many purposes.

"First: It stirs up a vital interest in the club.

"Second: It develops unexpected abilities upon the part of members.

"Third: It makes members aware of sound reasoning and facts concerning which they may be uninformed, if their reading or activities have kept along certain lines.

"All clubs, no matter what kind, must have their gala occasions when the dignified program is laid aside and amusement reigns.

"First and foremost we have the General Federation of Women's clubs which, in its department of work covers all phases of club activity. We who live in Ohio have access to the Program Extension service under the direction of Mrs. W. H. Swarts, chairman of the state committee on suggested programs. Extension Service also furnishes single subjects for one program, subjects for roll call, and a number of worthwhile manuals, besides short plays for women.

Timely Topic

"One of the most timely and important subjects to study today is the motion picture, which we must live with. At a meeting of 200 men and women, clergy, Catholic and Protestant professors, social service workers, scientific men, representatives of a dozen women's organizations, leaders and executives of the nation, picture producers themselves sat in conference. They stood for pulling together.

"Mrs. Thomas G. Winter is the woman selected by that group to represent the organized women of America in the Studio Relations Committee at Hollywood.

"Serious workers are looking into the future. They are driving today that those who come after may profit —that the race may be preserved and perpetuated with refined and progressive attributes."

About Margins

During the past few years margains have occupied a very prominent place in the public eye.

Long ago wise people discovered the value of a margin, a sum set aside for emergencies, misfortunes and opportunities. These far-sighted people build up margins, but they keep them on savings accounts where they cause no loss of sleep.

It was a number of yards away, slipping in silently now, before he recognized the man who stood up forward. It was Tom Davies!

Bruce shouted hoarsely. In another instant the cruiser had glided to a halt, rocking idly on the waters. Tom jumped ashore.

"I don't know whether you've dropped out of the sky, or the angels sent you!" Bruce shouted. "But we're just in time! We can get there before the two-eighteen!"

"What are you talking about?" Tom's voice was brusque and hard. "Where is she—I want to know where she is!"

"She left about an hour ago. I've been out of my nut trying to figure how to get off the island. Come on—no, I've got to get my things."

"Wait up a minute! I want a little talk with you."

Even in his excitement, Bruce noticed the strangeness of Tom's tone.

"What's the matter?"

"So you fell in love with her, did you?"

How could Tom know that? But Bruce didn't stop to wonder now.

"Yes. I'm in love, I guess. I'm crazy about her!"

"You're pretty cool to stand there and tell me that!"

The veins in Tom's forehead were knotted. His face had grown a dull, brick red.

"What's the matter with you any way?" Bruce demanded. "Are you off your head, too? Why shouldn't I tell you how I feel about Kathleen. Do you think you own her?"

"Eh? What's that?" Tom's jaw dropped. Suddenly he bellowed: "Where's my wife? I'm talking about my wife!"

For a moment of stupefaction Bruce gazed at him. Then he suddenly howled with laughter.

"Don't be an ass! Your wife's all right—she's just left to go home to you. She's given up. You've won!"

"Where is she?"

Over in Tenby by now. She's probably ready to take the two-eighteen."

Tom turned and yelled something to the two men in the speed boat. "Get your things!" he told Bruce. "No, I'll help you. We may get there in time. It's only a minute after two."

They ran up the hill, burst into the house. Bruce came out with half his clothes under his arm. Tom swung an empty suitcase in one hand, and a pair of shoes in the other.

"But see here," Bruce gasped as they hurried down. "What are you doing up here— and how did you get that boat—and a few other thousand things?"

"I started yesterday," Tom explained as he ran. "This morning when I got off at the junction, I decided I wouldn't wait for two hours. I found this boat in the bay. The owner wasn't aboard—I bought his crew to take me over here, without even asking him."

They were on the cruiser now. The engine began to sputter, grew louder, became a roaring thunder of sound. Further talk was impossible. Bruce gazed through the windshield at the shores of Tenby. He was not even thinking of Tom's mistake. Tom himself had not needed to ask questions, to have further doubts. How could he have ever interpreted Kathleen's casual words in such unthinkable fashion?

He, too, looked at the shore. Suzanne was there, repentant, returning to him, in love with him still! Wouldn't they ever reach the town? No boat could be built that his desire would not have outraced!

Bruce had stowed away his belongings in his bags. Tom caught one of them. The instant the cruiser ran alongside the landing, they dashed down the street in the direction of the station. The town clock reported that it was two-sixteen.

When they arrived they were both winded. The station master was on the platform.

"Is the train on time today?" Tom gasped.

"Yes, she was on time."

"She was?"

"Just pulled out a moment ago."

Bruce grinned weakly. "Well, we did our best."

"Yes," said Tom sadly, "we'll be in town by tomorrow night, any way."

"It doesn't really matter."

"No."

"We can send wires."

"That's right."

Bruce looked at Tom in sudden affection. This was comforting male talk. He felt a sympathy that was bred of their mutual longing and defeat.

"Let's go somewheres and have a bite, and I'll tell you everything that's happened, as far as I can remember."

Tom chuckled unexpectedly.

"What amuses you?"

"I was just thinking about you. So you're fallen finally. Going to throw away your precious liberty! No more adventures! Nice little job in an insurance office! Bruce this will make a man of you."

Bruce's face was somber. "I wouldn't mind any of those things. You can kid me if you want. I've come around to your way of thinking. What bothers me is she thinks I'm a hound for running off with Suzanne. She won't have anything to do with me."

"Just leave it to me"

"Do you think you can do something? I know she likes you. She might listen to you," Bruce said. "Ouch!" he ended suddenly as Tom squeezed his arm convulsively.

Then he, too, leaned forward and stared. In a tea room which they were just about to pass, they saw two figures sitting at a table. There was no one else in the dim, quiet room.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Humorous Boyhood Adventure

By JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

WEDNESDAY, and good slaying weather. I let Jubilee down out of the window this morning and I got into my clothes and went down and done my stuff, and the bunch was all there, and I said that the one that could squat down and put his hands between his feet from the back and make a line on the floor the farthest out in front of himself would get a piece of punkin pie and an apple and glass of milk when I went in to feed my face. Goop was the only one that hadn't seen it done and all the others was making out like they were trying, and Goop was trying as hard as he could and I got up and said, "you ain't doing it right," and got hold of his hands like I was going to help him, and I jerked up on his hands so hard and sudden that he turned a back flip, before he knew what was happening to him, and I was back milking the cow and the bunch was hootawing him for an easy mark.

I thought that was a pretty good joke, and then we went in the house and he sprang it on Feeble and she fell for it. She flopped so quick that nobody saw anything anyhow so she needn't have been so sore about it, but she grabbed the nearest thing she could reach which was a handful of the pancakes my mother was piling up on the platter on the kitchen table and smashed him in the face with them. Then she grabbed him around the neck with the other arm and held the pancakes against his face, and he kept trying to tell her they were hot and trying to get loose. When he got loose his face looked like he had been spanked, if that was where fellas did get spanked. And my mother scolded Feeble and said she might of hurt Goop, and Feeble began to cry, and I never did see anyone cry so hard or so loud. The whole family got around her and coaxed her to stop, and my father scolded my mother for scolding Feeble, and then Annabelle Lee started squalling, and Feeble closed her face and told Annabelle Lee to keep still and let someone cry that knew how to cry. Then she turned to my mother and said, "Let's see, what was I cryin' about." And everyone began to laugh and just then someone gave Feeble a kick from behind that made her teeth snap, and everyone was so crowded around they didn't know who had done it, and Goop was standing looking out of the kitchen window, so they knew he didn't. But he was too innocent. He didn't fool me none.

Nothing happened at school except Feeble told the teacher Goop had kicked her, and when the teacher asked her where she looked crosseyed and said in my kitchen. So the teacher couldn't do anything to him for not doing it on the school premises.

Love's Reawakening

The Story of a Wife's Triumph Over Jealousy

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Offers To Let the Youthful Belligerents Go Outside and Fight It Out

AS I entered Dicky's room, where I had left Roderick, my husband looked at me with pore preternaturally grave, but eyes full of mischief.

"Come, Roderick," I said, and Dicky lifted his hand.

"Just a moment," he intoned solemnly. "Do you need anyone to precede the prisoners in a black gown? I know the ritual."

I shook my head at him, without speaking, and he strode forward and put his hand on Roderick's shoulder.

"Tell them to send you a good breakfast of ham and eggs, old man," he advised. "It's your inalienable right."

I made a face at him over Roderick's shoulder, and whisked the small boy out of the room, thankful that he was too young to understand his uncle's gibes. But I had not reckoned on the newspaper education which so many modern children have received.

"Uncle Dicky must think you've going to hang me," he said with a little snigger, and I smiled down at him, not knowing whether to be pleased or annoyed at this sudden rebound from his penitence.

"He'll be surprised when you come back alive, won't he?" I countered, and Roderick gurgled out a mirthful "yes," as we came to the door behind which Junior wailed.

With the instinctive feeling that I must do something to counteract the latent antagonism between the two boys, which I could feel as distinctly as though it were something tangible, I motioned Roderick to a seat, and spoke swiftly, and with purposeful enthusiasm.

Embarrassed at Praise

"Do you know, boys, I am very proud of both of you," I said, conscious that the two little lads were eyeing each other much in the fashion of pugnacious, but temporarily leashed, terriers. "Each of you has told me the story of your fight, and while they agree, so that I know each of you has told me the truth, yet each one has taken the greater part of the blame on himself.

I was guiltily conscious that I was stretching the truth a bit as far as my small son was concerned. I knew that while he was terribly ashamed of the "awful name" he had applied to his cousin, and was ready to admit his part in the quarrel, yet he still considered that Roderick had been the aggressor. The truth of this had been brought out by Roderick's own story, so I recognized the justice of Junior's attitude. But I also knew his chivalrous generosity, so like his father's, and that after the sweet appeal I had made to him, he would not contradict what I had said.

The response of both boys to my little speech was identical. With reddened cheeks and downcast eyes, each flung himself against the back of his chair with an embarrassed, "Aw, shucks!" which made me turn my head to hide my twitching lips.

"Now, I am not going to talk to you about the reason for your quarrel," I said, when I had controlled my risibles, and turned back to them. "That is something which does not concern me. It is between yourselves, and you must settle it one way or another. If Roderick believes that you ought to let him have your cars to break up"—I looked at Junior, carefully avoiding Roderick's eyes

"I didn't think that," protested Roderick, "I don't."

"And if Junior thinks that he doesn't want you to play with him—" I was looking at Roderick now, and it was my small son's turn to protest.

"I do want him to play with me," he wailed. "I've never had a boy to play with, and he can take my cars to make a bus if he wants to."

Roderick Renounces

"I won't take 'em," Roderick said promptly, albeit there was a wistful note in his voice. "I guess I can manage without 'em."

I sat down in a big armchair and said softly, "Come here, both of you."

Junior bounded toward me, Roderick came more slowly, but with patent eagerness, nevertheless, and putting an arm around each one of them I drew them down to the arms of the chair.

"I wonder if you can keep a secret for me," I said.

"Sure thing," they both assured me.

"Well, then, you both know Christmas isn't very far off."

With one voice they both cited the number of days, hours, minutes and seconds until Christmas morning.

"And while I can't tell you just what is coming to you, I am sure that you will each have something so—interesting—that you won't have to argue about Junior's cars, don't you think, you can find things to do before Christmas that you can agree on, so you won't have to quarrel. You know it's pretty dreadful to quarrel at Christmas time."

"Yes, I know." Their small faces were sober now. To each of them the story of the Christ-child's birth and the meaning of that marvelous slogan, "Peace on earth, good will toward men," was as much a part of them as an organ of their little bodies.

"Well, then," I left the ethical question as abruptly as I had brought it to them, for it was no time to preach to them except by indirect suggestion. "There are only two ways you can settle this quarrel, you know, and I'm going to let you choose which one you want. You can agree to shake hands and be friends, and forget all about it, or you can go out into the orchard and fight it out, and whoever wins can say what the other can do about the cars. Now, think it over carefully and tell me which you wish to do."

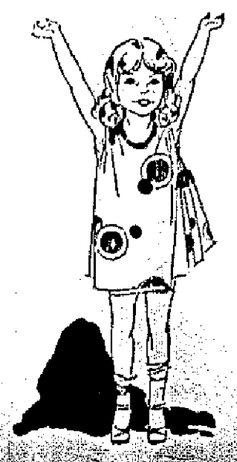
"Sick!"

Again the disappointment of a date that can't be kept. It's always the day one would like most to go. Midol means freedom from these days of inactivity—days of suffering.

You have probably tried other things for menstrual pains, but no, had thousands of women who today bless Midol. Try these wonderful tablets and be convinced that the normal process of menstruation need not be one bit painful. Midol is non-narcotic and harmless, but it does bring complete ease in five to seven minutes. Or prevents the pain even starting when taken in time. Every druggist has the trim little aluminum case to tuck in your purse, and Midol costs only 50c.—Adv.

Cheap Bread Cheats The Growing Child

There IS a difference in bread



WHO has a better right to the very best of food than a growing child?

Little bodies must be nourished . . . must be refreshed after a hard day's play, with bread that is all food . . . food to make growing children sturdy and strong . . . to help them play more, sleep better.

There is no place in a child's diet for cheap food . . . certainly no place for cheap bread. Good bread is the most important of all foods for children.

This is why so many thoughtful mothers depend on the homelike goodness of Holsum bread day after day to keep their children happy and healthy . . . to supply the needed nourishment.

Hundreds are changing to Holsum. Thousands have changed to Holsum. Have you?

FIRST Presbyterian, Waldo and Trinity of Senior and first place honors in the Senior Sunday school loop today following games played last night. The Presbyterians are today alone between Trinity and Christian Church.

Paul Pershing retained his hold in the loop by defeating Epworth, 24 to 23. The game was close until the last quarter. At the half the Presbyterians led, 10 to 15. Ruth Caldwell, Sage and Pohler was hitting the basket consistently for the victors. Waldo, playing a second division quintet, had no trouble in defeating Calvary, 27 to 21. Calvary was exceptionally weak in the first half scoring but four points. In the last period the losers outscored their opponents. The Stines were the high scorers.

With Ward, Vic Gillis and Rinnert going hot, the first Central Christian team walked over United Brethren, 50 to 11. Ward scored 17 points while Gillis was good for 13. The score at the half stood, 29 to 3.

The Christian was defeated by Trinity Baptist 31 to 14, in a fray featured by the scoring of W. Merchant. He counted 14 points. Rife scored 10 of Christian's counters.

Scores in the Intermediate league were: Christian 24 Epworth No. 1 9; Calvary 22, Presbyterian 21; Trinity 23, Epworth No. 2 17. Calvary's victory over Presbyterians, upsetting the league dope, was the feature of the schedule.

Rockne-Coached Teams Set New Record in Football

BY FRANK G. MENKE

A RECORD not dreamed of when Knute Rockne first donned moleskin as a player of the Irish teams than 10 years ago, Rockne's record as football coach at Notre Dame.

From 1917 until 1929 teams coached by Rockne, assisted by Hunk Anderson, Tom Lieb, Jim Crowley and Elmer Layden, have rolled against 120 squads of foemen and 101 times have they gone on to victory. Six times they were tied, and therefore in 13 more they have suffered only 13 defeats!

Four of the 6 shutouts were administered in 1925 when Notre Dame experienced the most serious of Rockne's 13 years. The worst of these, however, proved to be the best thing that ever happened to Notre Dame football.

Four Unbeaten Seasons

By luck or by the law of averages, Rockne has had four unbeaten seasons.

When one considers that Notre Dame has become accustomed to a post-season game (it is the only team in the U. S. A. to do so) and that the Irish have played 130 games, the record is all the more remarkable.

It was in 1924, for instance, that Notre Dame made a name for itself. From start to finish, Notre Dame's fighting spirit, coupled with the razzle-dazzle style of football which Rockne had developed, proved to be the talk of the football world. Then, in 1925, the Irish fell back to earth. Their record was marred by 3 defeats and 2 ties. Critics declared Notre Dame was through. Rockne, however, refused to be licked. He set to work with the material at hand and produced a team that went through the season undefeated, untied and unscored upon. Then, in 1926, Notre Dame came back with a vengeance. Only Army was able to score against the Irish and Notre Dame closed the season with a victory over Stanford in the Rose Bowl.

Smash Many Records

Notre Dame under Rockne has smashed a host of records. Through the 13 years he has been the boss, the squads have traveled farther than any football teams in history. They have played more games on foreign grounds. They have played to greater attendance figures. More persons have paid to see college football games in the Notre Dame stadium than in any other college arena in America. When they drew nearly 500,000 in 1929 they hung up a record that may endure for all time.

It is likely that the mark of $1,200,000 for a single season's gate receipts against the University of Southern California will not be approached.

No college in the last 13 years of play—except Notre Dame—has won 60 home games. It is unlikely that any major college team will exceed 60 home games during 13 seasons, as has held the rivals to 60 for 9.

In the 130 games Notre Dame has played since 1917 the average score has been:

Notre Dame, 22; Opponents, 5

Maintained Standard

A coach, playing in luck may take hold of a college squad at a time it is primed with shining stars and go along for a few seasons in great style. But eventually those stars fade. Only a miracle man—like Rockne—can build and maintain the brilliant standard.

Never in the Rockne-led annals of Notre Dame has a team ended the year with anything but a winning average. Even in its worst season—1926—Rockne's men, playing nine games, were able to gather in five victories.

Here is Rockne's record at Notre Dame—or, rather, Notre Dame's record since Rockne arrived and transformed that team into the most sen-

SHOVEL CAGERS TO OPEN SEASON HERE NEXT TUESDAY NIGHT

Bliss College Five Scheduled for Opener; Other Dates Are Announced

AN effort to restore professional basketball to the place it formerly occupied in Marion sporting circles will be made next week when the Marion Steam Shovel quintet opens its season against the Bliss college cagers. The first game will be played next Tuesday night in the Steam Shovel gym.

Three games have been definitely scheduled in addition to the one mentioned above. On Feb. 23 Rochester will be seen, followed a week later by the Goodyear Tire quint of Akron. On Feb. 1 the Cleveland Favorite Kicks, a classy semi-pro aggregation will play here.

The future of the pro game in Marion depends on the attitude taken by fans. The preliminary schedule is exceptionally hard and if the proper support is accorded by fans some of the best teams in the country, including the Chicago Bruins and the Cleveland Rosenblums, will appear the latter part of February.

The schedule was approved yesterday by the Steam Shovel Athletic association.

The local team is to be made up of Penry and Appleget at forwards, Schwab at center and Compton, Iacon and Tschannen at guards.

Ruth Sticks to Demands for $85,000 from Yanks

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, Jan. 8—Babe Ruth, in his hat and ball map from Joe Bonn, is an $85,000 holdout today, determined in his attitude and unyielding in his demands. You can go right out and bet the insurance money, too, that he will be a holdout tomorrow, also next week and the week next month. For obvious reasons, I won't go so far as to say next season. The Yankees and Mr. Ruth may be a trifle impetuous on occasion but neither of them is crazy.

However, Ruth is absolutely sincere in his determination to take $85,000 for three years or $900 for more. He told me what he was going to do three weeks ago and, late yesterday afternoon, he went in there and did it. This was no sudden whim of his, this downright refusal to accept first, $70,000 for one year and then $75,000 for two. It was a carefully conceived and well planned gesture, intended to notify the Yankees that $85,000 was his price and three years his union of how long such a contract should endure. Ruth may be a lot of things but he's no bargainer.

"I'm going to get $5 grand on a three-year contract and that's that," said he in no uncertain way, some time ago. "I'd rather you didn't tell them about it. They'll know soon enough. As for me, I've thought this thing out for a long time and I know what is coming to me. And they'll have to give it to me."

Ruth is to leave for Florida with his family in a day or two and the chances of a renewal of negotiations at this time are far from promising. In fact, while the party broke up yesterday in perfect amity, both sides seemed to be irreconcilable. The Yankees had tried to sign Ruth at the old terms, $70,000, on a one-year basis. He scoffed. They raised the ante to $75,000 for two years. He snuffed in cast disdain. Then he told them the news and all of it was had.

In a formal statement, issued after the conference, the Yankees said they were unalterably opposed to a proposition that granted anybody a three-year contract and that $75,000 was as far as they intended to go with Ruth. My guess is that if the going man is mistaken enough, they will reach $85,000 when the time comes and be happy that it isn't more.

There is a limit to everything, of course, but Ruth never will reach his until baseball tries to get along without him.

Maybe the Yankees will be able to compromise slightly, either on the money side of the contract or its length of operation. Much of this will depend upon how both sides play their cards. There must be a certain amount of give and take in a situation like this, but, frankly, most of us don't like to be driven to a point where the Yankees give and Ruth take.

Anyhow there are two things that are desirable. The first is that Ruth, in spite of all his resolutions, is going to be no holdout, once the season starts. For then it will be costing him money to get money and even a sap knows that doesn't pay. The second and more pressing need relates to that the New York Yankees—scandals of prejudices, won't—can the star on without Ruth. They won't even start the exhibition season without him, because here he brings in the money and takes none in return. In other words Ruth is in a position to cut out the club.

It is my observation that he who can afford to walk seldom has to

FLUSH THE KIDNEYS BEFORE BREAKFAST

Drink Lots of Water, Also Take a Little Salts If Back Hurts

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Eating too much rich food creates acids, which excite the kidneys. They become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood. Then we get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys, or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin drinking a quart of water each day, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, and in a few days your kidneys may act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush and stimulate the kidneys; also to help neutralize the acids in the system, so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby often avoiding serious kidney complications.—Adv.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

Does a pimply face embarrass you? Get a package of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights, if you are like thousands of others.

Help cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets the successful substitute for calomel, there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

Thousands who take Olive Tablets are never cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition, pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound; known by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.—Adv.

Otto Reiselt Is Notch Closer to Cue Crown

NEW YORK, Jan. 8—Otto Reiselt was a notch closer today to the title he once held as a result of his victory over Allen Hall, Chicago, in their match in the world's three-cushion billiard championship here last night.

Reiselt won by 50 to 42 after 45 innings of play. It was his fifth straight win and gave him an undisputed claim on first place. Hall, Johnny Layton, defending champion, and Augie Kieckhefer, each has won three matches and lost one, tying for second place.

Oberlin Quintet Nosed Out by Baldwin-Wallace

OBERLIN, Jan. 8—In a contest marked by close guarding, the Baldwin-Wallace basketball squad nosed out the Oberlin quintet 19 to 17 here last night.

Schwegler, Lanky Berea center, took scoring honors for his team with three goals and two fouls. Capt. Barrs, with four goals, was Oberlin's high scorer.

Shires Continues Merry Ring Career With Victory

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 8—Investigations to the contrary, first baseman Charles Arthur Shires won his merry way toward Horse fame today with another one round knockout victory to his credit.

"Whataman" Shires chose Tony Faeth, former American association pitcher, for the third one-round knockout of his brief but stormy professional ring career. Shires put his opponent away for the count of 10 last night after two minutes of various kinds of boxing in the first round.

Faeth went down for a nine count. He arose to meet a furious rush from the White Sox first baseman. One of Shires' right crosses caught him on the jaw and the match was over.

One of the largest fight crowds to assemble here in recent years witnessed the bout.

Dates for Junior High Cage Series Are Set

The Central Junior and Vernon Junior Heights schools have scheduled their basketball dates for the season. The teams will meet Jan. 21 at the Vernon gym and on Feb. 21 at the Y. M. C. A. floor.

Ohio Wesleyan Beaten by Chi in Rough Fray

CHICAGO, Jan. 8 — In a game marked by 38 fouls and a blackened eye or two, the University of Chicago's basketball team last night defeated Ohio Wesleyan, 36 to 21.

The Wesleyan team had 22 fouls called and Chicago, 16.

Scrimmage tactics of the Ohioans forced Chicago to resort to lofty high passes and long shots in order to score. Last night's game was the last preliminary contest on Chicago's schedule.

Men who can't stand hard knocks develop into knockers.

Stop that COLD ... before it stops you!
COMMON head colds often "settle" in throat and chest where they may become dangerous—rub Musterole on these parts at the first sniffle—it will relieve congestion by stimulating blood circulation.
But don't be satisfied with the noticeable relief you should experience from the first Musterole rub—apply it every hour for five hours and you'll be amazed at the result!
Working like the trained hands of a masseur, this famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other helpful ingredients brings relief naturally. It penetrates and stimulates blood circulation and helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses.
Keep Musterole handy—jars and tubes. All druggists.

Motor Stocks Drop to Lower Levels with Outside Traders Inactive

BY W. S. COUSINS
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 8—Neither the bulls nor the bears in the active rails were far from the home base when stock sales dwindled to the dullest up to the noon period. Throughout the afternoon in two years, and on the market practically standstill point, it was evident that progress could be made among the professional element. The bulls were timid and afraid to wander in too far in view of the large commitments already in the market. The summary of steel production, showing an upturn after two months of entrenchment, was a disappointment to the bulls, who had looked upon this development as the signal for their campaign to start. The Iron Age said the immediate steel demand is due largely to automobile buying, steel operations standing at 65 per cent of capacity, a further gradual improvement.

Specialties were well sprinkled throughout the forenoon and moved moderately at the start, but soon abandoned the attempt for lower prices as support for good stocks arose. Public interest in the automobile issues was greater than in the rails for one or two, there was no disposition on the part of outside traders to buy the motor stocks, which consequently drifted off to lower levels. Officials of the companies denied the rumored acquisition of the Loew's stock by the Radio-Keith-Orpheum interests spiked the "bull move" in Radio Keith which was in full swing at yesterday's close.

Today's Review of Yesterday's Grain

CHICAGO, Jan. 8—Further offerings and sales of Russian wheat as well as freer offerings of Argentine grain depressed of the futures in the principal exchange yesterday, causing a subsequent decline in other world markets. Following heavy liquidation at the local opening trade quieted down to a routine, though there was a slight rally at the close.

At the close local wheat prices were 1½c lower. Corn was ⅝@¾c off, oats unchanged to ½c down, and rye ¾@⅞c lower. Liverpool prices closed 1¼@1⅜d lower, while Winnipeg was again weaker than Chicago, declining 2@2⅜c.

While it had been thought discouraging news of the past few days had caused pretty thorough liquidation, yesterday's far from optimistic cables reported and increased local bearish sentiment. After the heavy selling at the start the market again looked well liquidated, but there was nothing to inspire buying and the market dragged through near the lows to the close, when local short covering caused a rally of around ¾c. The latter was ascribed to sellers who in the present uncertain market like "to go home crossed up."

Early cables confirmed total Russian sales so far at 2,000 tons to London, small quantities to the continent and further amounts being sold. Broomhall advised late of another 1,000 tons to the United Kingdom at 81,414s. Winter wheat from the steppes. In addition, Argentine shippers were offering larger amounts from the old crop supplies.

Domestic export trade was very quiet and there were no sales reported, although it was said some bids were not far below a workable basis. There were many statements setting forth reasons for the slow Continental demand for wheat this season.

Bulls were not to be discouraged entirely, however, for there was some fear expressed over the cold wave with lack of snow cover in many sections of the belt. This made itself felt in a slight relatively firmer tone in the July.

Spot corn continued to show activity and strength. All grades gained on the May future, with the basis called ½@1½c higher. Receipts were very light, compared to recent arrivals, and country offerings were small.

Cars of grain received and inspected: Wheat, 13; corn, 93; oats, 17; rye, none, and barley, 5.

E. A. Sloan's Body To Lie in State at Church

The body of Edward A. Sloan, president of the Marion Cemetery association, will lie in state at Epworth M. E. church from 1 to 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, preceding funeral services at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Sloan died yesterday morning of cerebral hemorrhage, following a short illness. He was prominent in cemetery associations, both state and national, and was well known in this city, where he had lived since 1907.

Dr. C. E. Turley, pastor of Epworth church, will be in charge of the services. Interment will be made in Marion cemetery.

COUNTY BOARDS MEET

The Marion county board of county commissioners met this morning with the board of commissioners of Morrow county to hold the hearing on estimated assessments and specifications for the construction of the Letharn joint county ditch. The meeting was held in the office of the Morrow county commissioners at Mt. Gilead.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Uncertain weather has for the last week been holding Marion markets to a standstill. The temperature, which has been unseasonably warm, has accounted for a depression in butter and egg prices, and has considerably slowed the sale of meats.

A plentiful supply of butter on the market now has held the price down to 48 cents a pound, whereas the price of butter is usually around the 50-cent mark this time of year.

Eggs come in plentifully from Marion county farms with the temperature at levels it has maintained for several days. Egg prices are now 48 to 50 cents.

CAN LIFT PIANO ALONE —HAS LOTS OF PEP NOW

"As a piano mover, I can handle a piano all alone since taking Vinol. I gained 32 pounds and lots of new pep and vigor."—Earl Bowers.

For 30 years doctors have prescribed Vinol because it contains important mineral elements of iron, calcium and cod liver peptone. The very FIRST bottle brings sound sleep and a BIG appetite. Nervous, worn-out people are surprised how QUICK Vinol gives new life and pep! Tastes delicious. Heaney & Cooper, Druggists.—Adv.

Local Pythians Going to County Assembly

Plans for a county Knights of Pythias meeting to be held Thursday night at Green Camp were discussed last night at a meeting of Canby lodge, No. 51, here. The local lodge expects to send a group of representatives to the county meeting.

A class of candidates was given the page degree at the meeting last night. Following the meeting an oyster supper was served.

THE BEST INDICATIONS OF WHAT WE MAY EXPECT UNLESS WE FOLLOW A DEFINITE CONSTRUCTIVE PLAN FOR THE FUTURE ARE THE

Statistics which have been gathered by insurance companies and others.

These show that 84 per cent of all the men who are still living at the age of 65 are dependent upon others.

No doubt most of these men expected to be well off some day but in most cases they did nothing about it but hope and expect.

They followed no definite plan and were unwilling to make sacrifices.

Weather Problem Solved in Office of County Surveyor

Work on Engineering Plans for Ditches and Highway Projects Now Under Way in Preparation for Outside Activities: 12 Ditch Projects Pending

Someone once made a remark about everybody talking about the weather but no one doing anything about it. As far as no one doing anything about the weather is concerned the saying is the truth.

But officials in the county surveyor's office seem to have solved the weather problem satisfactorily. Since the work in connection with the surveyor's office gives officials work outside the office as well as inside they suit their plans to the weather.

On favorable days they load their instruments into a light truck and go into the county to survey a ditch or road. When weather conditions are not favorable they work on the data gathered in fair weather.

Adapted to Seasons

The office suits work to the weather in another manner as well. During the summer months when fair weather is the general rule the county officials devote the greater part of their time to building and repairing roads. This work can be done only in fair weather and summer proves the ideal time.

In the winter when road building is impossible the attention of officials in the surveyor's office is devoted to desk work. Ordinary winter weather does not seriously hamper the operation of drafting machinery. Then, too, engineers can survey ditches in periods of fair weather and make their mathematical calculations when work outdoors is impossible.

12 Ditch Projects

At present there are about 12 ditches under various stages of legislation and construction in the county. These will probably not all be constructed this winter. But as rapidly as construction plans are settled by property owners and the board of county commissioners the engineering work is started in the surveyor's office.

Perhaps the most important engineering project in the county as a whole which is now being carried on is the formation of plans for the widening of the Harding Highway from Marion to Five Points, about five miles east of the city. Engineers from the state highway department are now working on this project. Officials of the county surveyor's office are cooperating. The work is to be done next summer.

Club Federation Prepares for Election of Officers

Nominating Committee Appointed at Meeting of County Women's Organization; Report Is Received on Nutrition Work Being Done in Schools

Mrs. C. L. Rutherford, Mrs. A. N. Grimes, Mrs. C. E. Heaney, Mrs. H. A. Gordin and Mrs. Frank Terhune were named members of the nominating committee of the Marion County Federation of Women's clubs at a program meeting last night in City library.

There was an attendance of about 25 women, with Mrs. John T. McNamara, president, in charge. The Penchanterina Scholarship fund was voted $25 from the county federation, to be paid this year. This fund is to provide for the exchange of a student with South America each year.

The Federation will hold its future meetings at City library except for special occasions and programs when the women will meet at Hotel Harding.

Writer To Be Guest

Mrs. J. A. Williams, program chairman of the federation, announced that Mrs. B. V. Williams, Cincinnati writer of poetry, will be in Marion on Feb. 4, to appear as a guest of the federation. This will be an afternoon meeting at Hotel Harding.

Mrs. A. B. Ewen opened the program with two piano numbers, "Melody in F," Rubenstein, and "Serenade from Luna d. Lammermoor."

A report of the nutrition work in the schools was made by Mrs. Anne H. Sutherland, federation representative on the nutrition committee. Her report included the work that is being done by Miss Esther Trees, school nutritionist.

Make Best Showings

According to the report, the Glenn Avenue school showed the greatest per cent of gain in children 10 per cent or more underweight, and Lincoln Street school showed the greatest per cent of gain in children 10 to average weight. The poorest showing was made by the Greenwood Street school. This was accounted for in the report by the number of children who had been vaccinated at that school.

Miss Trees has written diets for the following: Three reduction diets for teachers, one of alkaline forming foods for a child with swollen joints, one of foods high in iron for an anemic boy and a list of foods for an underweight girl. The clinic at City hospital has offered bottles of cod liver oil to give to needy children, the report stated.

Mrs. Lewis Ott, prominent in Federation work, presented a paper on "Program Building," which is reprinted in part in tonight's edition of The Star.

MRS. W. M. SPICER TAKEN BY DEATH

Passes Away at Age of 79 After Long Illness; Funeral To Be Friday

Mrs. Elizabeth Hafner Spicer, widow of W. M. Spicer, died last night at 9 o'clock at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. C. Brubaker, East Mark st. She had been moved there Saturday. Complications and old age caused her death. She had been ailing for several years.

On Feb. 21 of this year she and her husband, William M. Spicer, who died in 1924, would have celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary. They were unable to hold a celebration of their golden anniversary 10 years ago because of the influenza epidemic here at that time. The family had made plans for a party to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary.

Mrs. Spicer was born April 2, 1851 in Sidney, O., to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hafner. Surviving are with her husband, are the following children: Mrs. Seymour, at whose home she died; Mrs. Jessie Warriner, Benton pl.; Mrs. James Milburn, Marion; Mrs. B. L. Newlove, Pamplier av., and Charles Spicer, East George st. A son, Roy Spicer, has been dead 16 years. Fourteen grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren are living.

Two half-brothers, Fletcher Greene of Union county, and Edward Greene of Franklin county, and two half-sisters, Mrs. Marcia Elliott, Colorado, and Mrs. Mattie Wolfe, Boise, Idaho, are living.

The funeral will be held Friday afternoon at the M. H. Gunder funeral home, West Center st. The body may be viewed at the funeral home at any time.

"KONJOLA GAVE RESULTS THAT ASTONISHED ME"

Cincinnati Man Happy To Tell What New and Different Medicine Did For Him

MR. ALEX JONES

Results are what count, and Konjola can be counted on for results. Consider the experience of Mr. Alex Jones, 225 West Fourth St., Cincinnati, who says of Konjola:

"Konjola gave results in my case that surely astonished me. For four years I suffered agony with muscular rheumatism, and was in bed for weeks at a time. Indigestion and constipation added to my misery. Every morning found me tired out and exhausted. Medicine after medicine failed me. A friend insisted that I take Konjola; she said she was sure that it was the medicine I needed. And Konjola proved to be just that—the medicine I should have had in the first place. In four weeks this remarkable medicine corrected all of my ills. I have regained all the weight I lost, and am feeling fine. No wonder Konjola is known as the medicine with more than a million friends."

Konjola is sold in Marion at Stamp & Sams Pharmacy and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

DRAWS $600 FINE AT UPPER SANDUSKY

Wyandot County Judge Hears Liquor Case; Tiffin Man Pleads Guilty

UPPER SANDUSKY, Jan. 8—Tuesday was a busy day at the courthouse. L. H. Whetstone, local dry cleaner, was fined $600 and costs by Judge Earl B. Carter, in common pleas court, after he had pleaded guilty to the possession of intoxicating liquor. A raid was made Monday night by Sheriff H. H. Stansbery, Deputy Sheriff Raymond Stansbery and Night Policeman N. H. Eby. A small quantity of liquor was found in the upper establishment and empty mash barrels and jugs in the cleaning plant.

Justice of the Peace M. O. Bell, of Marseilles township, held a session of court in the grand jury room at the courthouse Tuesday morning. A young man, giving his name as Charles Dahlke, Tiffin, was arraigned for being intoxicated and disorderly. He received a plea of guilty and was fined $20 and costs. Dahlke and a companion, owned a stone truck reported the Salem Evangelical church east of Upper Sandusky. Dahlke's companion escaped. Officials are investigating to see if the truck Dahlke was driving was a stolen one.

Tom Stansbery, living south of this city, was fined $300 and costs and his driving license suspended for a year in the court of Squire M. O. Bell, of Marseilles township. Stansbery being unable to pay his fine was committed to jail.

proposal that concerted action be taken "to stop this shooting without provocation."

"I can truthfully say that Buffalo and adjoining towns are thoroughly aroused and alarmed over the shooting of James Downey by coast guardsmen, when he was not threatening them but merely trying to run away," said Mead.

Editors Condemn Killings

"He is the third man killed along the Niagara frontier in the last year and a half. Editorial writers of newspapers, both "wet" and "dry," have condemned these quick trigger guns."

The "drys" are not entirely in agreement on the question. All express regret that killings are necessary. Some offer a blanket offense, and declare congress must back enforcement officers to the limit. Others want to take measures to prevent them.

Representative Hudson, Republican, Michigan, a leading dry, had advocated the creation of a border patrol, uniforming of the men and a "constabulary" course of training before they go into service, as a means of insuring that officers will shoot only when necessary.

Many "drys" are expected to follow the lead of Representative Beedy, Republican of Maine, who told the house that congress must back the enforcement men to the limit if they are to do good work.

According to a government estimate nearly 25,000 persons in the United States are employed in the manufacture of airplanes and their motors.

Prince Takes Childhood Sweetheart for Bride

guests, including high state and ecclesiastical officials and diplomats, waited to greet the newly-wedded pair.

The marriage was performed by Cardinal Maffi, archbishop of Pisa, whom all Italy remembers as having pronounced a Te Deum in the cathedral of Pisa when the armistice was proclaimed. At that time he lauded the virtues of Italy's "soldier king" an unusual tribute from a church dignitary at a time when the Vatican and the Italian state still were at seemingly hopeless odds.

Stand Before Cardinal

While the closest members of their respective families knelt before a luxurious velvet bench in front of the altar, the royal bride and groom stood while Cardinal Maffi pronounced the words that made the charming Belgian princess and Italian consort and, in the natural course of events, the next queen of the Italian kingdom.

In accordance with the ancient custom, the princes of the Italian house of Savoy flanked the bride and groom, holding over their heads an exquisite veil of white and gold lace. It was the same which had been used when King Victor Emmanuel of Italy was married to Princess Helena of Montenegro on Oct. 24, 1896.

Princess Marie Jose's bridal gown was a masterpiece of the couturier's art. It was fashioned of cream-white velvet, woven especially for this purpose by skilled weavers of Como, Italy, and was trimmed with antique Brussels lace.

The gown carried a 23 foot train, embroidered with ermine and lined with white and silver moire. Although the princess is known to be a devotee of the short skirt for informal wear, she bowed to ancient royal tradition on this occasion, and the two-trimmed skirt of her gown dropped to her ankles.

All in Full Dress

The prince was dressed in military uniform. Towering in height over his consort and the other members of his family, the prince of Piedmont presented an impressive spectacle as he stood before the gorgeously-decorated altar and promised to "love, honor and cherish" the princess who will someday be a queen.

In spite of the fact that the ceremony took place soon after 10 o'clock in the morning, all the guests in the chapel and spread throughout the rambling palace were attired in full dress. Officers of the army, navy and air force appeared in high uniform with full decorations.

The women were dressed in conventional evening gowns, the only difference being that court etiquette demanded full-length sleeves and modest neck-lines. All had their heads covered with white mantles of lace.

The wedding procession started punctually from the royal apartments of the palace. It was led by Count Marchi di Cellere, court master of ceremony, who was followed by all the aides de camp of the Italian and foreign sovereigns and princes.

Walks with Father

Then came the high authorities of the royal household, including Senator Count Mattioli-Pasqualini, minister of the royal house, and the 92-year-old Duke Doria D'Oltmo, grand master of ceremonies. Then came the gentlemen of the court, and directly behind them the galaxy of royalty.

Princess Marie Jose walked slowly to the chapel on the arm of her father, King Albert of the Belgians. A murmur of approval was heard among the brilliant throngs which packed the reception rooms and corridors through which the procession paced as the princess went by, smiling demurely and blushing slightly, as befits a charming bride.

The princess' mantle and train were borne by pages, selected from among the children of ladies and gentlemen-in-waiting to the Italian sovereigns.

Directly behind the princess and her father walked Prince Umberto, with his mother, Queen Helena, on his arm. King Victor Emmanuel escorted the bride's mother, Queen Elizabeth.

Guests All Royalty

Among the others taking part in the procession were Princess Mafalda of Hesse and her husband, Princess Giovanna and Princess Maria, daughters of the Italian sovereigns, the duke and duchess of Aosta, the duke and duchess of Apulia, the duke of Spoleto, the count of Turin, the duke of Abruzzi, Prince Thomas of Genoa, the prince of Udine, the duke of Pistoia, Princess Maria Bona and her husband, Prince Conrad Wittelsbach of Bavaria, the prince of Bergamo, the duke of Aosta, the duke of York, representing the king of England, the prince of Montenegro, brother of the Italian queen.

Premier Benito Mussolini and Signor Federzoni, president of the Italian senate, also marched in the procession, each bearing on his arm a lady of high rank. The court ladies in waiting following, all wearing on their breast blue ribbons emblazoned with the royal cipher in diamonds.

Civil Authorities Attend

The guests took their places in the crimson-covered pews at each side of the altar. In addition to those mentioned before, there were present King Boris of Bulgaria and his brother, Grand Duke Cyril and sister, Princess Eudoxia; Prince William representing the king of Sweden, the grand duchess of Luxembourg, the prince of Monaco, former King Manoel of Portugal, Prince Paul, representing King Alexander of Jugoslavia and Queen Augusta Victoria of Portugal.

Of this imposing number, the nine Italian royal princes and three princesses participated in the ceremonies. These, together with the parents of the bride and groom, knelt near them during the ceremony.

When the civil authorities, the council of state, the highest judges, marshals and generals, representatives of the Senate and the chamber, cabinet ministers and knights of the Order of the Annunziata, the highest Italian order, had taken their places in the chapel, the royal procession entered to the accompaniment of bridal music from the chapel organ.

The prince and princess took their places before purple velvet kneelers which directly before the altar, while

POPE'S BLESSING IS GIVEN COUPLE

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 8—Crown Prince Humbert and his bride, the Belgian princess, Marie Jose, paid a visit to the Vatican, this afternoon, to receive within the bosom of his family, Pope Pius XI, on their marriage this morning.

Thunderous acclaim greeted the happy couple as they motored through streets packed with humanity to the Holy City after the culmination of their wedding ceremony.

They reached the gate of St. Peter's Square at 1 o'clock this afternoon where they were met by high papal functionaries who escorted them into the pope's presence.

They were warmly welcomed by the pontiff, as they were ushered into his presence.

Both knelt before his holiness and kissed his fisherman's ring, the symbol of papal power.

The pope spoke to them affectionately, wished them happiness in their marriage and blessed them.

on their left knelt the king and queen of Italy, and on their right the king and queen of the Belgians.

Ceremony Is Read

Behind them stood the royal princes, holding the lace veil over the couple's heads.

Throughout the wedding ceremony soft music was played. The first part of the ceremony was brief. Cardinal Maffi handed the crown prince the blessed nuptial ring. He smiled tenderly as he placed it upon his bride's finger, but the princess was visibly moved and her hand trembled slightly.

Immediately following the religious wedding, Cardinal Maffi read to the crown prince and princess the customary formula of the Italian civil marriage.

"Your royal highness, Prince of Piedmont," the cardinal said, "are you willing to take her royal highness the Princess Marie Jose of Belgium as your wife?"

The crown prince turned to his father, who made a gesture of assent. Once at a marriage of sons of kings it is necessary that the father's consent be given in view of all. Then in a clear voice the Italian prince replied:

"I do."

The question was then addressed to Princess Marie. She too turned to her father, and King Albert nodded with the irresistible smile which has made him the most popular sovereign of Europe. The princess turned to the cardinal and answered:

"I do."

Cannon Announce Marriage

With these words the princess renounced her Belgian birthrights and became the consort of the future Italian king. As the words left her mouth, cannon were fired to inform the populace that the marriage had taken place, and the myriad church bells throughout the Eternal City pelted forth the news.

The crowd which had been waiting patiently outside the palace burst into wild cheering, and clamored incessantly for a glimpse of their new crown princess. The newly-weds were forced by the shouts of the populace to appear for a few minutes the brilliant reception in the palace in order to make an appearance on a balcony of the royal palace, accompanied by the sovereigns of Italy and of Belgium.

Countless thousands who swarmed in the square below the balcony accorded the princess a welcome almost without parallel in recent history. She and the prince were forced to bow repeatedly in answer to the cheering throngs, whose shouts of joy were punctuated by the national anthems of Italy and Belgium, played by massed bands in the square.

When the crowd at last consented to release their new princess and her ever-popular husband, they returned to the palace rooms where a wedding breakfast and reception was held. Most of the high officials and personages of aristocratic blood who were present in the palace during the ceremony had an opportunity to meet the new crown princess, and the festivities attending the marriage were scheduled to last far into the night.

Strange behavior, but it is not so far away, in Christian lands, the shadow of the religion supposed to be practiced by the spirits, were often beaten with horrible brutality, even beaten to death, in an effort to encourage the spirits and drive them out.

Juniors Meet

The Junior M. E. Missionary society was entertained at an after Christmas party Saturday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. Fern Michels. After an attractive luncheon the time was taken up with monthly devotional program, which included the reading of letters from Juniors in other fields. A series of contests followed games going to Florence Fidler and Anna Gale Coleman. An exchange of gifts followed. Invited guests were Iverna Belle Cook, Rene Sirine and Mary Louise Davis.

MOTHERS now learn value of MAGNESIA

Because it is so helpful in keeping babies and children healthy and happy, every mother should know about Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

This harmless, almost tasteless preparation is most effective in relieving those symptoms of babies and children generally caused by souring food in the little digestive tract, such as sour-belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, colic. As a mild laxative, it acts gently, but certainly, to open the little bowels in constipation, colds, children's diseases.

A teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia does the work of half a pint of lime water in neutralizing cow's milk for infant feeding, and preventing hard curds. Its many uses for mother and child are fully explained in the interesting book, "Useful Information." It will be sent you, FREE. Write The Phillips Co., 117 Hudson St., New York, N. Y.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.—Adv.

Keep This Silent

THERE'S a minister in town who is wondering if some one didn't try to put something over on him.

It so happened that the minister, a comparatively newcomer, joined a luncheon club where they have a weekly "silent boost," or prize drawing.

And, as Mark Hellinger in writing his Broadway column would say, if you know your luncheon clubs, then you'll be able to knit this yarn together.

Well, this aforesaid pastor went to club, first time, mind you.

And, mind you this too, the "silent boost" went to the minister.

Nothing unusual in that, was there? Sure, not.

BUT——

The boost, well the boost—and we sincerely hope the dry agents do not start an investigation—as we were reading the boost was real bootleg stuff.

It was precious stuff, this boost. Some one either brought it back from Canada or else they bought it from their favorite "bootlegger." Well, anyway you know what we're trying to say and maybe you can imagine this pastor's consternation when he opened the package and found what it contained.

And, just to help this intelligence test—he's a good Methodist minister, too.

It's reported that he left the boost on the table and so far we haven't been able to learn just who got that boost.

And the minister still hasn't found out if he was the goat or just unlucky.

Plenty of Reporters

GEORGE R. HOLMES, chief of the Washington bureau of International News Service, whose stories on Washington and politics in The Star always are interesting and entertaining, has been assigned by his news service to "cover" the London disarmament conference.

Mr. Holmes will accompany the American delegation, headed by Secretary of State Stimson, which sails from Hoboken Thursday afternoon. Mr. Holmes' many years of experience at Washington includes direction of the staff that covered the 1921 naval disarmament conference.

Working with Mr. Holmes in directing the staff which will cover the London conference will be Harry R. Flory, chief of the London bureau and a veteran foreign correspondent. Mr. Flory was stationed in Paris many years before being assigned to the London post.

F. W. Wray, who has covered the British foreign office for International News Service circuit for 15 years, will be assigned to the British delegation.

Jean Pages, a veteran member of the I. N. S. staff in Paris, will accompany the French delegation to London.

Charles A. Smith, J. E. Stahl, and other members of the London staff will be assigned to the conference story.

An Added Mystery

THE Marion Mimes never realized when they decided to put on a mystery show, "The House of a Thousand Thrills," that it would be so "hot" that the fire department would come "tearin'" toward rehearsal headquarters.

But, the other night the Mimes were more than going to it, working on the second act of the mystery play when several members suddenly heard the clang-clang-clang of the department. To the window they scurried.

"My gosh, we must be on fire!" some one yelled as one wagon after another roared in front of the Finch building in South Main st., until three trucks and Chief Tom McFarland's car were lined up.

Down off the trucks dashed the firemen with their chemical extinguishers.

And out into the hall dashed the Mimes with coats and hats and eager for the fray.

And to their astonishment they found the firemen climbing the stairs toward them.

"Where's the fire? Where you goin'?" yelled the Mimes.

"142½ South Main st., right here," was a fireman's answer.

None of the Mimes knew about any blaze. Neither did other residents of the building. The firemen went downstairs and after waiting for a few minutes departed. Afterwards it was said that the person who called in the alarm later reported that she was mistaken or the fire was out, or something like that.

"Good publicity for 'The House of a Thousand Thrills,'" said one of the Mimes as the trucks pulled away, "but it's too darned early."

New Role for Friday

FRIDAY has been assigned to an outstanding place in the 1930 calendar, according to those who have spared the time to make an analysis of the new year's schedule.

The proverbial "jinx day," Friday the Thirteenth, is relegated to the background this year and a happier arrangement substituted. The only Friday the Thirteenth comes in June, and the fact that this will be in the month of brides will probably tend to prevent bad luck from predominating.

Standing against this one so-called jinx day will be the Fridays which will be the occasion for sending St. Valentine's love missives, the placing of wreaths on soldiers' graves Memorial day and the patriotic outburst on July 4. These three notable days fall on Friday.

Spring will arrive with pastures green and early flowers on the third Friday in March. Hallowe'en will be celebrated with pranks and apple bobbing the fifth Friday in October.

Those who find calendar scanning a pleasant pastime these winter days, predict that March, May, August and November will be favorite months with workers who receive pay envelopes on Saturdays. There are five Saturdays in each of these months.

Christmas, 1930, arrives on a Thursday. Armistice day will be observed on a Tuesday and Columbus day on Sunday.

Sunday, April 6, will be the 13th anniversary of America's declaration of war. The third Monday in March will be celebrated with green ribbons and shamrocks. April Fool's day arrives amid jokes on a Tuesday.

First Concert of School Series Attended by 400

Dales Frantz, Pianist, and Stuart Wilson, Vocalist, Appear for Opening of Project Launched Here for Promotion of Music Education Among Boys and Girls

BY HALLIE HOUCK
Marion Star Staff Writer

"Salesmen of music," they were, Dales Frantz and Stewart Wilson, pianist and English tenor, who sang yesterday afternoon at Central Junior High school auditorium in the first of a series of three concerts sponsored by the Lecture-Recital club for the increase of a knowledge of worthwhile music among school children.

Four hundred boys and girls of the public schools reaped the benefit of the talent and interesting personalities of these two men. The program, which was about 50 minutes long, sparkled with the gay stories each told of the numbers which he sang or played.

There is much to be done in the education of school children for the love of good music, and if the calibre of the second and third numbers of the series is up to the standard of the first number, this desire for good music should bear fruit among the boys and girls.

Folk Songs for Opening

The program opened with four folk songs, "Keys of Canterbury," "Horse on the Mountains," "My Boy Billy," and "Oh No John," sung by Stewart Wilson, a pleasing tenor, with a personality that went over the footlights to his boy and girl listeners, and met with the hearty approval of the adults present. There was a humorous little story before each song was sung. Mr. Frantz accompanied the singer in all his songs.

Dales Frantz, blond young pianist who has won his audiences wherever he appeared, played a jig, followed by "The Harmonious Blacksmith," Handel and Mozart's "Turkish March," as the numbers in his first group. After this Mr. Wilson sang a group of three numbers, "Who Is Sylvia," Schubert, "Phillis Was a Fair Maid," eighteenth century, and "The Two Grenadiers," Schumann.

Two of Chopin's compositions, "Military Polonaise," and "Minute Waltz," were chosen by Mr. Frantz for his concluding group, followed by "Punch and Judy," Gossec, and "Country Gardens," Grainger.

"The Derby Ram," a folk song, and "The Song of the Flea," Mussorgsky, sung by Mr. Wilson, closed the concert.

Music Well Selected

The music was not "over the heads" of the school children, and held their interest to a far greater degree than a lengthy and classical program would have interested them.

The next program will come late in February. The department of music in the schools is assisting the Lecture-Recital club in the concert projects.

Musical Expedition Into Jungles Arranged for WEAF Entertainment

Singers To Take Audience to Darkest Africa Via Melody Route

T[illegible] of muffled tom-toms [illegible] the cries of unknown jungle beasts will [illegible] when the Silvertone Singers take their listeners [illegible] through" to darkest Africa [illegible] the thrilling tale. The feature of [illegible] hour, which will make [illegible] the loud-speaker [illegible] big-game hunt, will [illegible] Singers quartet's [illegible] of Brown's stirring [illegible] Jungle," from the [illegible] drive, "Untamed."

[illegible] contrast to the savage [illegible] of the evening's entertainment, the quartet will offer Nevin's placid, melodious "Narcissus" in special four-voice arrangement by Frank Black, musical director of the hour. Wilfred Glenn, bass, will inject a bit of "comedy relief" into the silvertone singing "The Mischief-maker" by Adams, one of the more flippant of his extensive repertoire of musical compositions.

James Melton, tenor, has selected two favorites for his solos of the evening. The first will be the beautiful aria, "Salut de Moure, Chaste et Pure," from Gounod's "Faust." The second will be D'Hardelot's lovely "My Message."

The Silvertone Singing Mixture will offer a special string chorus transcription of Saint-Saens' "The Swan" and the quartet will also do Carrie Jacobs-Bond's "I Love You Truly."

The Silvertones go on the air from 9 to 9:30 o'clock Thursday night over the WEAF network.

U. B. CHURCH PLANS ALL-DAY PROGRAM

Thursday Designated in Week of Prayer Observance as Church Day

Thursday will be Church day at First United Brethren church, with services starting at 10 o'clock in the morning. The Women's Missionary society members and ladies Aid society group will meet at 10 o'clock. The Missionary society will have charge of the morning program until dinner at noon. The Aid society will put on the program until 4 o'clock, when the two groups will form teams to visit members of the congregation.

At 4 o'clock the junior boys and girls will gather to organize a Junior Christian Endeavor society and a catechetical class. The men of the church are expected to be present for the supper at 6:00 o'clock and to attend church at night.

Last night the Rev. Carl V. Hoop, pastor, celebrated national prayer week with a sermon, "The Church at Pergamos." Miss Virginia Painter gave a vocal solo, "In the Garden." Tonight the choir will sing "The Awakening Chorus." The sermon topic will be, "The Church At Thyatira." All members of the Sunday school will attend tonight and sit in a body.

Last night the Women's Missionary society and its guests sat in a body for the meeting.

COMMITTEE MEETS

Community Fund Board Allots $400 to Welfare Department

GALION, Jan. 8—Galion Community chest executive committee met Monday night at the public library and made the usual monthly allotments. The Welfare association asked and received a double portion $400, to meet the extra demands of the present time. The demands on the welfare fund usually light, during the summer months are very heavy at the present time. Wilbur King was elected to the executive committee to replace John Stark, deceased.

CLASS MEETS

GALION, Jan. 8—Mrs. J. A. Jenkins was hostess Monday night to the members of the Naomi class of the First M. E. church. Readings were given by Mildred Patterson and Mary Frances Pulton; piano solo, Elanore Kirk; vocal solo, Katherie Lindley. Mrs. Carl Shaw and Mrs. J. V. Dye were winners in two contests. Refreshments were served by a committee.

CIRCLE MEETS

GALION, Jan. 8—Members of the Galion circle of the Child Conservation League met Monday night with Mrs. A. Hornstein, at her home North Columbus st. Two papers were given by Mrs. Mary Wagner and Mrs. Naomi Hill. A short business session was held. The next meeting will be in two weeks with Mrs. James Smith.

Dog Raids Kill 228 Sheep in County During 1929

Injuries of 91 Also Included in Losses of Livestock Raisers. Auditor's Report Shows: License Sales Amount to $6,989

Dogs killed 228 and injured 91 sheep in Marion county during 1929, according to a report completed today in the office of County Auditor Earl E. Thomas. The figures are included in the auditor's annual report to the state auditor.

The report shows that the sale of dog tags in 1929 netted $6,989.25. At the beginning of 1929 there was a balance in the dog and kennel fund of $2,931.79, making a total in the fund for the year of $9,084.04.

$1,568 Paid for Claims

Compensation paid farmers for losses for livestock killed and injured by dogs amounted to $1,567.10, the report shows. Of this amount all was for sheep killed and injured with the exception of $30, which was for a calf killed by dogs. Fees paid witnesses in all cases for the year amounted to $81.55. Other expenses, including dog license tags, blanks and other supplies and the county dog warden's salary, amounted to $1,723.45. All expenses for the year were $6,111.90.

Although the report shows there was a total of $3,272.14 in the dog and kennel fund on Dec. 31, 1929, the fund did not actually end the year with that large a balance. More than $2,000 of that amount represents the receipts from the sale of 1930 dog tags. Sale for the new tags opened Dec. 10. According to Auditor Thomas there was approximately $1,000 which was derived from 1929 tag sales in the fund at the end of the year.

3,936 Tags Sold

Last year the county auditor sold 5,856 dog tags, the report shows. Of this number 3,417 were for males and 519 were for females. Thirty-three kennel licenses were sold.

With the prospects of a balance of approximately $1,000 in the dog and kennel fund at the end of the year the board of county commissioners reduced the price of dog tags early in December. Tag prices were returned to $1 for males, $2 for females and $10 for kennels. The tag price was increased to 1, 3 and 15 at the close of 1928 when the dog and kennel fund was exhausted before all licenses were paid.

Approximately half the dog owners in the county have purchased 1930 tags for their pets, Auditor Thomas estimated. He bases his estimate on the number of license sold last year. The office had sold 2,055 tags yesterday.

Sir Henry Segrave expects to make two miles a minute in his new speedboat, Miss England II, in the races at Miami March 25 and 26. However, a race was never won by expectations alone.

Primo de Rivera now says that he will resign within six months, but he should not be taken too seriously. It was his scheduled day to talk about resigning.

Senator Grundy refrained from voting when the senate increased the duty on woolen yarn for the reason that he is interested in the industry. That man seems to take delight in showing up the senate radicals.

Two army aviators are killed in a head-on crash at Galveston and three Australian army officers are killed in a nose dive near Melbourne. The hazard of auto driving by comparison is becoming rather small.

Former Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, was one of the three distinguished gentlemen to decide on the distribution of $60,000,000 left by the late Conrad Hubert with which to help the needy. The greatest opportunity ever offered the former governor in this line was in 1928, but he fell down on the job.

A Warning to Industry.

A report returned a day or two since by the labor committee of Detroit's city government warns the automobile industry that it must stabilize employment the year around or it may find itself bearing the burden of a system of doles, old age pensions, unemployment and other government regulations, and it makes four recommendations which are worthy of consideration. They are:

"Adoption of a sliding scale of prices varying with the seasons to stimulate buying in normally slack seasons and discourage buying in the normally heavy seasons.

"Fewer changes in models and the changing of models in summer rather than winter.

"Elimination of the winter auto show.

"Adoption of production schedules which will cause auto stocks to rise and fall in a predetermined scientific manner."

While the recommendations of the Detroit report are intended to apply especially to the automobile industry, the first three of them, at least, can readily be understood to be applicable to almost all lines of industry.

Possibly it is looking to too close an approach to the ideal to perfect any system which will so regulate buying as to make it approximately even the year through, but the nearer the approach to such a result, the better it would be for the capital and labor engaged in production and ultimately for the buyer of the product. As for changes in and variety of models, both have been greatly overdone. In this respect, all industry may take a lesson from a leading electric bulb corporation, which by reduction and standardization of products has profited greatly financially and at the same time greatly reduced the prices of its products to its customers. And it may be safely said that the annual shows of industrial products have had a marked tendency to add to the multiplicity of models and styles of products against which this Detroit committee warns.

Patrol of Canadian Border.

Washington and Ottawa reports of the same date differ greatly regarding the Canadian reception of the country's plan to increase the number of ports and subports of entry on our northern border from 150 to 300 and close the boundary at all other points, guarding it by a united force made up of 700 members of the border customs patrol, 900 immigration inspectors and several hundred additional guards. In a word, the treasury, labor and agriculture departments would someone for not only to guard against rum-runners, but also against the illegal entry of aliens and the smuggling into the country of poultry, agricultural products and other merchandise subject to duty.

According to Washington advices, the official working on the plan have conferred informally with Canadian officials and found them to be favorable, disposed toward it.

Ottawa dispatches are to the effect that while Canada will endeavor to secure the enactment of legislation to prohibit the exportation of liquor into the United States, she will not enter into any Canadian-American pact to sanction a border patrol armed with rifles and machine guns, the Canadian understanding being that the plan contemplates a force of 10,000 men.

The report of the Washington conference had not arrived at Ottawa Tuesday, as it was forwarded by mail, but it was given out that "when it does arrive, it is difficult from the present survey to see where it is going to get the least measure of sympathy." Dispatches from different Canadian sources hold that the plan is considered there to be accompanied by a potential hazard to tourist traffic and international good will; that sooner or later some Canadian blood would be shed and that out of such incidents grave consequences might arise.

Possibly, the Canadian government having learned that a force of 10,000 troops is not contemplated, but only something like 2,000 representatives of the three American departments named, it may change its attitude. It may the more readily have assumed that the force was planned to consist of 10,000 troops from the fact that it figures that its own force to stop the exportation of liquor to this country will not cost it less than $19,000,000 a year, but Premier Mackenzie King and the majority of the dominion cabinet feel that the expenditure of that amount is better than that Canada should be in position to be accused of favoring rum-running.

The plan for the unification of forces is a sensible one. Nothing could be much more nonsensical than the present plan of operations under which three separate forces are engaged, none of which is interested, so far as practical results are concerned, in the activities of the other two. It is not wholly unlike the present plan under which representatives of the treasury department collect income taxes from rum-runners, bootleggers and blind tiger keepers, leaving the arrest and prosecution of such criminals to other departments of the government.

But sensible as the plan is, it should not be entered into without the approval of the Canadian government, our relations with which have so long been undisturbed. It has been a matter of prideful comment by the people of both lands that they have lived so long in peace and amity with an undefended line extending from ocean to ocean between them. Nothing should be permitted to obtain to destroy the ground for this proud boast. And we of the United States should be the last to bar it, for the citizens of our country are in great part the offenders against whom the plan is projected, their offenses invited and encouraged by legislation enacted by our congress and ratified by a majority of our states.

"United States Trade Hit by New Australian High Tariff Bars," reads a headline over a Canberra story. We may grimace a bit at the medicine administered to us, but we can hardly complain. It's the same we have long been administering to others.

The supreme court of the United States has sustained the New York law giving deserted wives the right to attach the bank deposits of their husband. The sad phase of the thing is that so few husbands who desert their wives have bank deposits to attach.

Four loops were made in a glider, a day or two ago, by an aviator up in Chicago, establishing a world record. Still come to think of it, a man would land just as hard whether he flatted down on his back or on his face.

Gold nuggets are being found in the crops of turkeys raised in the vicinity of Sault Ste. Marie, one housewife getting nuggets valued at $20 out of one turkey. Turkeys with a taste for gold like that may be well worth all that is being paid for them.

Mayor Thompson, of Chicago, isn't so greatly worried over the cutting of the city's police and fire forces, but he is just all broken up over what may happen to the babies of the city with the health department cut owing to the empty treasury. "Big Bill" once played the school children game. It will be interesting to see what he accomplishes with the baby scare.

Promises, promises are urging the government to drop free trade and erect tariff walls against the goods of the world. Following the action of Australia, we may take their growing tariff sentiment to indicate that our British cousins are coming to think less of free trade than some of our Democratic friends.

From New York City comes the announcement that the prison riots in the Empire state may end the reign of the so-called reformers there; that the legislature aims to enact a law which will stop the coddling of prisoners, regardless of the feeling of the voting citizens. Prisoners should be treated fairly and decently, but coddling them to the point where the reformer is bound to meet the views of the reformees is bound to weaken discipline and precipitate trouble.

"Wallow in Water."

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Your good looks depend to a large extent upon the appearance and condition of your skin. A perfect complexion is of more importance than perfect features. Every one admires a beautiful skin.

Absolute cleanliness of the skin is the first consideration. Your complexion can not be kept clean by merely dabbing a little water upon it. Plenty of soap of a fine quality is essential in order to cleanse the pores of the skin and to keep it in good condition. An abundance of water is required to wash away the dirt and germs which accumulate in the day's work.

A general bath should be taken at least twice a week. But in these days, most people could not think of letting a day pass without a bath. A brisk rub will stimulate the circulation of the blood, and a bad complexion will show amazing improvement without outside cleanliness.

That is not all, for cleanliness within is also essential. You can not have a beautiful complexion if your system is clogged with waste materials from undigested food, or poisoned by the evil effects of constipation. You should drink plenty of water, not too much at mealtime, but before or after eating. This will help to cleanse the system.

There are germs in the air and germs in the dirt with which we are in constant contact. Of course it is the skin that suffers first.

The skin is one of the most important organs of elimination of the body. The dead cells are constantly cast off, carrying with them the waste substances of the body as well as the dirt and germ accumulation. Many poisons of the system are thrown off through the skin. You can see why the skin should be kept in good condition. Cleanliness is the great essential to its proper action.

Physical exercise of a vigorous nature stimulates very greatly all the functions and organs of the body. The heart, lungs, liver, kidneys, bowels, the mysterious "ductless" glands, and the skin all are stimulated by energetic exercise.

You have often noticed how much better your skin looks after a vigorous walk out in the bracing air, or after a strenuous game in the open. The air is a tonic for the skin and nobody is going to look or feel well who does not take his daily exercise. If you are the fortunate owner of a car, do not let its possession cause you to forget the normal uses of your feet.

A good complexion means that you must avoid excessive sweets, fats and starches. Eat plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables. It is good to drink milk with your meals, if you like it.

Rest and sleep are great restorers. In a reckless age we disregard the warnings of our bodies either to abstain from taking too much of the wrong food, or for lack of rest and sleep. Abundant sleep has almost instant good effect on the skin.

Advancing age will bring wrinkles. Well, many a beautiful face is made more beautiful by the lines chiseled by time. Character is shown by these signs. But every one wants to look as young as he feels.

Cleanliness is the first requisite to a good skin, and good health depends upon this one thing to a great extent. It works both ways for a good skin depends on good health.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

R. B. Q—Is two per cent. yellow oxide of mercury ointment all right to use on the eyelashes every night?

A—Yes.

J. S. Q—Can superfluous hair be removed by the use of the electric needle?

A—Yes, but I would advise you to consult a skin specialist for this treatment.

A. B. C. Q—What is good for pimples on the face?

A—First correct the diet by cutting down on sugar, starches and coffee. Eat simple food. Avoid constipation.

A. M. S. Q—How can I reduce?

A—Weight reduction is merely a matter of self-control as regards the diet. — Copyright, 1930, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Editorial Opinion.

NO PUNISHMENT THAT SCARES THEM.

If they have the capacity and moral courage to reason from cause to effect, the bandit coddlers and sentimentalists who in one way or another contributed to the defeat of the recent effort to restore capital punishment in Michigan, have something to think about these days. For they can not escape knowledge that it was some of their protected proteges who bombarded a motorcar in which Inspector Girvin of the crime and bomb squad was riding on the streets of Detroit, all but killed the inspector and callously shot down eleven-year-old Lois Bartlett, a school girl, who happened to be in their line of fire, and who consequently hovers between life and death in Receiving hospital.

The perpetrators of the outrage were aware when they started on their murderous expedition that in case of capture, arrest, trial and conviction, they can not be punished in the one way they dread. They may be sent to prison, technically for life; but a life sentence generally means pardon or parole in a few years, barring a successful prison break with a few incidental murders meanwhile. There is no electric chair, no dread of being made to expiate crimes with their lives to stop the professional killer operating in the state; nothing but the possibility of retirement for a more or less undetermined period to a comfortable prison offering a warm place to sleep, plenty to eat and drink, regular amusements, contact with society, and no excessive amount of work. And for diversion, the excitement of planning a murder.

It would not be quite so bad if the thugs would prey only upon those who are determined they shall not be made to suffer the one adequate penalty for their crimes. But killers seldom seem to do that. Perhaps they know their friends. Their victims are far more likely to be people who have asked repeatedly for protection by the enactment and enforcement of a potent penal statute, but always have asked in vain.

We wonder how it feels to be an anti-capital punishment agitator and watch the steady lengthening of the homicide record from year to year, and feel conscious of having been morally responsible before the fact.—Detroit Free Press.

IN DEFENSE OF THE DERBY.

Just why so useful a piece of male accouterment as the derby should need defense is hard to understand, but it apparently does. Now that it is staging a spirited comeback, reams are being written in its behalf. Also, the wearers have fortified themselves with forceful arguments and snappy answers to wisecracks.

In recent years, the derby has been a sort of orphan child. Its wearer has been marked for ridicule. For some reason or other, the derby is supposed to be ludicrously human. We suspect that those who so view it never have worn one.

As a matter of fact, there are far more arguments in favor of the derby than against it. In the first place, it goes well with almost any ensemble, whether formal or informal. As a substitute for the ridiculous high silk hat, it has been accepted in the best circles. At least by the second best.

For another thing, it keeps its shape regardless, unless it receives a death-wound in the form of a puncture. Weather has little or no effect on it. The concealment with which it can be removed and replaced in the social amenities alone makes it worth its price. It misses the hair comb far less than a soft hat and lends itself readily to rakish or dignified angles, depending upon the nature of the wearer. Moreover, nearly all men look well in them. They are a genuine asset to the handsome, for they lend a worldly air. Personally, we are glad to see them coming back in bravely. Their wearers are men of fine discrimination and taste. We like ours.—Columbus Dispatch.

BEER-DRINKING JURIES.

South Carolina courts should have no trouble from now on in impaneling juries to hear liquor cases. The state supreme court has ruled that it is permissible for members of the jury to drink the evidence to determine whether it is intoxicating. The theory might be expanded, and, in settling the fate of a stick-up man, one juror might shoot another with the robber's revolver, to learn whether it was really a dangerous weapon. Perhaps in a suit for alienation of affections one of the jurors could make love to the person whose affections were stolen, to determine whether they could be stolen. The principle could be worked in almost any kind of a case.—Ohio State Journal.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

We should be happy people if we calmly recognized the fact that we grow old. Instead, most of us insist on trying to keep up with youth in its sex chemistry and adventuring. Not that one should retire to the chimney corner and put his cane on a cane—not that. But there is more happiness in the world, if it is a maturity of the mind and spirit based there is to the upset emotions of youth. For we can make us grown up in the mind—and that sort of age is worth better than youth.

Youth has been considerable criticism, some of it coming from the church. Now youth turns around and looks at the church. Youth criticizes its critic. At a Young People's conference in New York the church was indicted on several charges. The church was blamed for failure to abolish corruption and graft in city government, for combating theft with supporting foreign missionaries while the poor at home suffer from bad housing, for too much denominationalism, for refusing to open recreations to the unemployed in winter, for sometimes being guilty of race prejudice, for dressing people out with high-brow attitude, and failing to provide a pleasant place for lonely people to go in large cities.

There is much to think about in these charges though they are not entirely just when aimed at the church as a whole. Many churches do successfully the very things that the church as a whole is accused of not doing.

There is no longer any such thing as a country boy or a country girl.

Perhaps the most striking result of good roads, fast transportation and other modern improvements is to be found in the disappearance of the type known to an older generation. Unless you travel in districts that are extremely remote and inaccessible, you can't tell the difference between the boy and girl in the city and the boy and girl in the small town. Office and factories are full of young people who have come but lately from country towns. They are not different from their fellow workers who were born in the city. It is a question whether this is entirely a change for the better. There used to be small town characteristics that were especially de-fragile in the making of good citizenship. There still are and always will be—but it can hardly be said that in the modern day the small town rises to a higher level of behavior than does the city.

Of all animals men and monkeys are the most tireless imitators. Too bad we so often imitate another's bad or foolish characteristics. Young men imitate older men in their worst qualities. Women who imitate men seem most interested in men's less worthy characteristics.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Jan. 8—This has been a late arrival season of "clucks" and "nuts." There have been only five outstanding hits along with three "left overs" of the year before. The market crash is a contributed its genuine mark.

Only two of the hits really deserve the rating. The others in any other season would be only fair performances. Some unusually bad trash has been offered at top prices. And as a result the Rialto for the first time in years is almost completely dead.

I have, along with many others, gone home from the theater after the first act of the plays featuring recognized stars. They struggled bravely with such material as was given to them, but their artistry and personality could not fill the void.

The usual Broadway "angels" have been missing for some time, and as a result an number of productions have been backed by theatrical ticket agencies. One may get seats to almost any show in the cut-rate markets these days—and best seats, too.

The rise of Joe Leblang is a striking illustration of the sweep of the cut-rate business in New York. He is a millionaire many times over and one of the biggest holders of valuable real estate in town. His rise is one of the business romances of Broadway. "Joe Leblang" a show is part of the language.

He began with desk room in the corner of a Broadway drug store. Today he owns the valuable corner and the drug store is used chiefly to provide entrances to his remarkable cut-rate agency in the basement. And it on policemen are required to keep the crowds in line nightly at theater time.

Like a busy brokerage office, a long line of clerks stand before the boards—listening to fractions in cut rate. As they call out choice seats the takers rush for them. It's first come, first served formula employed.

Dutch East Indies.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

Visitors to the Dutch East Indies will find much to amuse and interest them, especially when they observe at close range the customs, clothing and pastimes of the natives of Java and the other islands or that picturesque group.

In common with most primitive races, the Javanese are lovers of show, finery and mummery. Nothing appeals to the semi-savage so much as the opportunity to become an official or to wear a uniform. Bright colors and gay pageants stir the imagination and warm the blood. Therefore, the average Javanese gains the reputation of having little foresight and no idea whatever of economy. What money he makes is wasted, as often as not, on festivals—shamettans—which are organized on the slightest pretext, such as a family marriage, recovery from an illness, the rice harvest, appointment to a government post, and such like.

Puppet shows, called wayangs, are very popular. Weird instruments like the gamelan and the rubab furnish a musical background against which grotesque marionettes strut through their dumb show. The Javanese are so are devoted to a curious kind of play—a pantomime, called topeng dalang, in which masked actors silently perform while the drama is recited by a reader.

Public officials, even of the most minor and unimportant rank, assume an air of grandeur which would be ridiculous if it were not so deadly serious to the natives themselves. The most insignificant office holder in a straggling, jungle village never dreams of leaving his house without an elaborate entourage, the most important and impressive member of which is the bearer of the payang, or ceremonial umbrella. These are huge sunshades, elaborately ornamented with silk-colored rings, the rank of the official being indicated by the number of rings on the payang.

The most common costume for men consists of half-pantaloons over which is wrapped a strip of calico, known as the body kain, six feet long by three or four wide. The women usually wear short skirts, without openings in front, with, perhaps, a long slanting, or scarf, draped over the shoulders. They wear large earrings, and both men and women go in for varied and numerous finger rings. The children dress as nature made them, except that sometimes they wear leg or ankle rings as ornaments.

Cod Liver Oil Influences Hatchability of Eggs

And Is Essential Poultry Ration During Winter Feeding

Cod Liver Oil is a wonderful substitute for Sunshine, consequently its use is essential in rations that are fed during the winter and early spring when hens are confined to the laying house.

Successful poultrymen obtain good results by adding one pint of biologically tested Cod Liver Oil to 100 pounds of mash or scratch feed to the laying hens.

Experiment has proved that birds fed Cod Liver Oil are more healthy, and fertility and hatchability of eggs from these hens is increased.

NEW CITY COUNCIL MEETS AT KENTON

Mayor Lingrel Sounds Plea for Cooperation of Departments

KENTON, Jan. 8—Kenton's new city council, decidedly Republican, convened for the first time Tuesday night completing its organization work and passing the appropriation ordinance for the year 1930.

The open meeting was void of any ceremonies, only the transaction of what business there was at hand while four persons, three of them new city officials looked on from the visitor's section.

Mayor George H. Lingrel spoke briefly to the legislators sounding a plea for cooperation among the various city departments "that we can fulfil the duties of office to the best interests of the people." He asked for a "progressive council keeping economy always in mind."

Floyd A. Lyman who resigned as auditor of the city that he might accept the appointment as city clerk, was named as council clerk and took office succeeding Roy E. Kempsell who filled the office at the opening of the meeting last night.

Committee appointments announced by Council President J. R. Rhoades are: finance, Howard L. Hoppe, E. H. McFarland and Harry Eddy; street and service, E. H. McFarland, W. P. Routh and Charles Friedel; light and water, Clarence McAdow, Harry Eddy and Willis Bopp; ordinance, Harry Eddy, W. P. Routh and Willis Hopp; building E. H. McFarland, Charles Friedel and W. P. Routh.

At the opening of the session Councilmen Bopp, Friedel, Routh and McAdow were given the oath of office by Mayor Lingrel, the remaining members being sworn at the opening of the year. Of the council personnel only Bopp and Friedel, representing the first and second wards, are Democrats.

One of the first items of business council will have to transact will be the selection of a site for a city dumping grounds replacing the present city dump which has been closed by injunction.

Iberia Residents Entertain at Supper

IBERIA, Jan. 8—Mr. and Mrs. Samuel McClarren entertained members of the threshing ring at an oyster supper Friday night at their home. A social time was enjoyed after the supper. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. H. McKibben and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stonebumer, Harry Maidens, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McAnall and sons, Bert Grace, Mr. and Mrs. John Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. John McAnall, Charles McAnall, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Sterns, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McClarren, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. Edd McClarren, Mr. and Mrs. Marcellus Rinehart, of Mt Gilead were guests from out-of-town.

MT. GILEAD COUNCIL APPROVES NEW RATE

Discuss Plans for Improvement to Streets; May Purchase Fire Truck

MT. GILEAD, Jan. 8—The village council at their regular bi-monthly meeting Monday night approved a new rate ordinance to apply to electric current used in cooking, heating and refrigeration. The new rate is three cents per kilowatt the same as that in effect in Carrington, Ashley, Marion and other towns served by the same company. The three cent rate will mean a real saving to those who use electric ranges but will not reduce the rates of those using only electric refrigeration as the minimum, $2.50 per month, is more than under rates now in effect for refrigeration alone.

A resolution to install a street light at the intersection of W. High and Marion streets was unanimously approved. A red reflector signal will be placed at the southwest corner of the intersection of Union and Main streets to war approaching traffic from the east of the dangerous crossing.

A proposition involving the purchase of a new fire truck with a power pump will be considered at an early meeting. The present truck is antiquated and has no pump, the pressure in the mains at times being insufficient to fight fires successfully.

Chairman G. J. Young, of the hall committee reported that the stage in Levering hall has been provided with new footlights as the council recently authorized. The painting of white lines on the streets and yellow parking lines was authorized and this will be done at once under the direction of street commissioner Bert Reading, who was also authorized to have the iron seats about the square repaired and repainted immediately.

A motion by H. C. Johnston to employ Thad Buck, engineer, to prepare complete plans and specifications for the widening of Main st., between the north and south squares was approved. The street may also be widened north of the square to North st. It is not expected that the town will be required to pay a large per cent of the cost as the state and county will probably bear a share of it. Protests of property owners to the proposed widening have dwindled and plans are being made to have the work done this summer if possible.

A petition of various property owners to close North Cherry st., north from the alley at R. Q. Swethands is being considered but some councilmen seem to be unalterably opposed to it. The street committee, of which Dan M. Brown is the chairman, will report with their recommendation at the next meeting.

The finance committee will make appropriations for the various city funds and report at the next meeting. The sinking fund on hand for 1930 is $16,204.50. The demands on this fund this year will be approximately $10,000 so that there will be a surplus of $6,204.50. In the general fund for city expenditures a total of $16,116.68 is available part of which is surplus from last year. The largest item, however, is $10,150 from the three-mill levy. City officials estimate that sufficient funds are available to care for all current expenses and to widen Main st., with the further possibility that some repairs can be made at the sewage disposal plant.

NO ACTION TAKEN BY CITY COUNCIL

Fate of Ordinance Providing Compensation in Death of Fireman Undecided

BUCYRUS, Jan. 8—The fate of ordinance now before the city council creating pension and compensation funds for Bucyrus police and firemen was still undecided last night, when George Ryan, chairman of the committee asked for further time on the question, as the result of the decision rendered Dec. 27 by the supreme court in which the court holds that when a city maintains such funds the state industrial commission is not liable for death or injury claims which might arise within the departments. The decision was rendered in the case of William Heckenhauer member of the local fire department, who was fatally injured while fighting a fire last March.

Further action towards the payment of the Heckenhauer claims was taken by council last night when the claims were referred to the trustees of the firemen's indemnity fund for payment. Although the claims cannot be met legally by the trustees, Fire Chief W. F. Mader, who was present at the meeting, stated that steps towards payment of the claims would be made in some way from the firemen's relief fund which although it provides for payment of disablement compensation to firemen injured in service or payment of a widows pension, does not provide for the payment of hospital, doctor and funeral expenses of a deceased fireman.

NAME OFFICERS

Iberia Sunday School Elects Officers at Business Session

IBERIA, Jan. 8—At a meeting of the Sunday school board of the Methodist church Sunday morning the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Superintendent, Clarence Craley; assistant superintendent, Charles McClarren; secretary, Linetd Roesch; assistant secretary, Vivian Close; treasurer, Chester Garverick; pianist, Marjorie Rinehart; chorister, Olan LaRue; assistant chorister, Mrs. Kenneth Grooms; librarians, Dale Riggs and LaVern Albright.

Upper Sandusky Music Club Sponsors Operetta

UPPER SANDUSKY, Jan. 8—"Heartless House" is the title of the operetta to be given by the members of the Woman's Music club of this city, at the Senior High school auditorium, Tuesday night.

The synopsis is as follows: "The New Era Society", a band of women scorning their dependence on men, inhabit a country home which the press has branded the "Heartless House."

Two wealthy maiden ladies bestow a large endowment to the society, and place their twin nieces in their care. At the end of a year the maiden ladies, disgusted with the tutoring of their nieces, expect the endowment, and the society, a financial failure, adopts a new motto, "Our latest plan is to wed the man who loves and obeys."

The principle parts are Stanfair, treasurer of the society, Mrs. Frederick Reiser; Cantwright, an authoress, Mrs. Harman Frank; Alethea and Althea, twin sisters, Miss Geraldine Hoover and Mrs. Marian Bartely; Miss Abigail Falstone, their aunt, Mrs. Adam Hockenmaier; Miss Hadda, sister of Miss Abigail, Miss Maud Myers; DeBasy and Sharpridge, members of the society, Mrs. Karl Hale and Mrs. Hayden Raabe; certain woman, Mrs. Fred H. Walton. The chorus is composed of the members of the music club. Mrs. Sidney Hall accompanies the operetta.

GALION COUNCIL HOLDS SESSION

New City Officials Organize at Initial Meeting; Name Committees

GALION, Jan. 8—Members of the city council met last night in the council chamber for the first meeting of the year, and organized according to the caucus which was held Monday night in the office of City Solicitor George Davies. W. M. Kinz, the only Republican member of the council participated in the caucus and the meeting held last night. The following officers were selected for the coming year: vice president John C. Poth; clerk, C. F. Fise; assistant clerk, Mrs. C. F. Fise. C. W. Tracht will act as president of the council according to the election of November.

The following committees will stand according to appointment by Mr. Tracht: rules and finances, Poth, Wirick, Flick; claims and finance, Tracht, Pfeifer, Poth; streets and sewers, Wirick, Romine, King; sidewalks and alleys, Pfeifer, Poth, King; water, Flick, Pfeifer, Romine; light, Romine, Wirick, Tracht; health, Wirick, Poth, King.

At the meeting last night it was announced that a meeting of the council will be held next Tuesday, to pass the appropriation ordinance for the coming year, which will allow the money for the various departments of the city for 1930.

OPEN COURSE

SET ASIDE FUNDS FOR CITY'S NEEDS

Kenton Council Adopts Ordinance Shaped by Finance Committee

KENTON, Jan. 8—Ordinance carrying appropriations totalling $118,192 for the conduct of the city's affairs during the year 1930, was passed by city council Tuesday night.

Of this amount $12,212 will be used in the operation of the general sales, service and health departments, divided as follows: general $8,260; safety, $15,265; service, $18,250 and health $2,740.

The sum of $72,693 was set aside for sinking fund requirements to meet bonds coming due this year and interest on the bonded indebtedness.

The waterworks department was given $23,080 for operating purposes, however, this money is required from the earnings of the municipally owned plant which is self sustaining.

The street maintenance and repair fund shows a total of $15,000 which is received as the city's share of automobile licenses, while the gas tax fund for street repairs was given $12,000.

Two thousand dollars was given to the library fund and $1800 placed in the conservancy fund.

Passage of the appropriation ordinance marked the first major bit of legislation enacted by the new Republican council. At the close of the last fiscal year, marking the end of the administration of W. J. Ochs, Democratic mayor, balances in the various funds totalled more than $20,000.

The appropriation ordinance was shaped several days ago by the council finance committee and other city officials and very little discussion was heard on the measure last night. The only additional monies included in the ordinance were $1,000 for anticipated sewer work and $200 for the sewage disposal plant.

BUCYRUS OFFICIALS OPEN NEW YEAR

Group Adopts Appropriation Totaling $229,265.60 for Annual Expenditures

BUCYRUS, Jan. 8—Business for the year 1929 was officially closed by the city council at the first meeting of the new year Tuesday night, and the newly-elected city council, composed of all of the old members, were sworn into office for their new term. H. A. Barth who has been serving as clerk of the council since the death of August Broemel, former clerk, was re-employed as clerk, and Fred Metzger was reappointed chairman pro tem. All standing committees were reappointed for the new term by president of the council, Harry Corle.

Other business for the new year disposed of at last night's meeting was the adoption of the annual appropriation ordinance totaling $229,265.60.

Fire Chief Will Mader's report revealed the cost of operation of the fire department during the year as $12,005.78, the bulk of which went for salaries of regular firemen and minute men.
